What happens to freshmen? Do they get gobbled up by upperclassmen? Do they become lost in the endless maze of corridors, never to be seen again? Far from it. With three months gone since school reopened, RapAround tracked the freshmen down and found them alive and well. In fact, four Mercy frosh, were delighted to share their views on what the experience has been like.

Though Clare Kiely found high school quite different from grammar school (Our Lady of Lourdes), and also a lot harder, especially the Earth Science course, she took to her new life rapidly. As president of her class she is already a personality to reckon with on the school scene. Backed by her experience as vice-president of her junior high class, she came well prepared for her duties which so far have included planning activities for the class, directing the cookie drive and coordinating the class into a cohesive unit.

Her advice to those who are or will be new to high school is "To make new friends and be prepared to be open and flow with the tide."

Liz Hetterich who hails from St. Louis School in Pittsford found high school a lot more fun than she expected and as a member of the cheerleading squad said, "I've been having a great time!"

She acknowledged that in the beginning it took her a few days to overcome her nervousness but once it was

Though the life of a freshman is hectic, Peg, Mary Chris, Liz and Clare agree that in the few weeks that have elapsed since September they have all matured.

behind her she adapted to the new life. She attributed this to her philosophy of not depending on the security which comes with hanging onto old friends but getting out and making new ones.

Margaret Heneghan, a graduate of St. Thomas Moore School, was happy to enter high school and was astounded at the school's spirit. Shortly after she started, she participated in her class songfest during Mercy's Field Day. It is this involvement in extracurricular activities which she contended bridges the gap between the old and new phases of growing up. It also helps in making new friends, she pointed out.

Mary Chris Sayr, from St. Louis School, was pretty aware of what high school was all about, having a sister who is a senior at Mercy. Mary didn't take long to become involved in high school life. Within the first few weeks she landed a spot on the cheerleading team and became a member of the Student Government Association. For those who will be new to high school in 1978 she adamantly suggested, "Branch out and meet new friends."

Perhaps the two changes in their lives which took some getting used to were the speed up of their daily routines, especially the rushing to classes; and the fact they are more on their own without neatly outlined directions and no prodding — they know what has to be done and it's up to them to see that it gets done.

The girls are members of the class of 1981 which will be Mercy's 50th graduating class — and there isn't a doubt in their minds the class will live up to the honor. "It's a good class," stated Clare and quickly interjected, "especially homeroom 302."

The girls agree with a touch of resigned patience that it is going to be a long time before reaching their senior year. Those, however, who have left high school behind know that it doesn't take long — in fact, those years are gone in a twinkling of an eye.

Winner's Circle

RapAround weekly will run a photo of a group of students taken somewhere in the diocese. One person will be circled and if that person brings the clipping to the Courier-Journal before noon of the Tuesday following our publication date, he or she will receive $5. This week's photo was taken at McQuaid during lunch period. The person circled above should bring the clipping to Joan M. Smith, Courier-Journal by noon, Tuesday, Nov. 29 to receive $5.
