Week of the Young Child

This week has been designated the National Week of the Young Child. Recent photographs at the Trinity Montessori School show, left, Jean Yuan sniffing the aroma from flowers which decorate a classroom there. In the photo above Brian Morgan entertains himself with his stereoscope.

Members of the class are Evan Ong, Jean Yuan, Leo Wang, Jennifer Henry, David Bau, Bachel Soriano, Robert Gatewood, Chaw-Chaw Chang, Megan Johnson, Rachel Dennis, John Hack, Alexandra Perovich, Margaux Biernat, Christen Boudreau, Kristen Gelein, Matthew Hoover, Marcus Andrews, Brian Magam, Kristen Trainor and Corey Rosen.

Kristen Gelein puts the finishing touches on her classwork.

Write To Congress

Recently, at the National Catholic Educators' Association meeting in St. Louis, the Department of Chief Administrators introduced a resolution designating the week of April 10-14, Write to Congress Week.

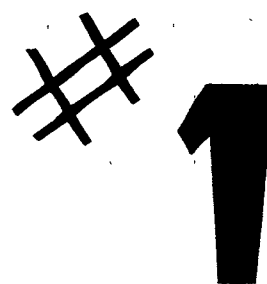

According to Timothy Leahy, superintendent of diocesan schools, the thrust of the proposal is to encourage and assist parents to present their needs and to request the support of congressman. Here in the diocese, elementary and secondary school administrators will work along with the Parents Federation, requesting parents to send letters to their legislatures asking them to support the tax credit bill.
