

Sister Ann joins in with Brian Nelson, Richard DeCoursey and Michael Frey.

Two Views of Life

There is another side to the story of St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester. Its perspective is not from within the hospital itself but, from outside, in the streets and in the neighborhood surrounding the institution.

And that dual perspective is embodied in Sister Ann

William, director of the hospital

Sister Ann is also the secretary of the Bull's Head Southwest Development Corp., and a member of the 19th Ward Association, an organization acknowledged by those in the local political arena as one of the most powerful and well-organized neighborhood action groups in the city.

The organization's concerns range from housing to, as shown in these photographs, the maintenance of the streets of the area. Pictured are the events of a recent spring clean-up day on Genesee Street. The association's members, business leaders and Scouts from a number of troops, all pitched in to clean up the winter's debris in the neighborhood. And right among those cleaning was Sister Ann.

Photos By Susan McKinney

A Boy Scout cleans the yard in front of an abandoned house.

Road work in Genesee Street began a few days prior to the clean-up.

Dave and Jean Hanson, owners of Dave and Jean's Donuts, also are members of the association and provided the coffee and pastries to workers on the clean-up day.