

The already unforgettable smile and comfortable personality first warmed the world at large back on Saturday Aug. 26, when Pope John Paul I met the crowd in St. Peter's Square just after his election. Flanking the new pontiff

Vice President Walter Mondale had an audience with Pope John Paul Sept. 4 when the pontiff greeted delegates from 100 countries, including seven Communist nations. (RNS)
