Musical Treat at Cardinal Mooney

Recently, Cardinal Mooney students were treated to "A thing of beauty, a thing that will last forever," said Brother Francis Ellis about a first time event for the school - a concert introducing students to the richness and enjoyment of classical music given by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

Isaiah Jackson, conductor, led the orchestra in a program of works varying from the "Fanfare for the Common Man' by America's leading composer Aaron Copland, through the martial strains of Leo Delibes' "March and Procession of Bacchus" from "Sylvia", to the dramatic "Infernal Dance- of King Kashchei" from Igor Stravinsky's "Firebird" Ballet.

Before concert day, Brothers Edward Boyer, Music Department, and John Davies, Social Studies Department, prepared program notes to raise student awareness of the various musical compositions to be played. They were distributed by Mrs. Joanne Koerner, English Department director.

According to faculty member Mrs. Shirley McHail, who arranged the RPO visit, the orchestra promised to come back and students are hoping this will be the beginning of a cultural series at the school.

RPO assemble for their program at the school, Oct. 6.

A Combination Band

What do Sacred Heart, Holy Rosary and Nazareth Academy have in common? Sister Beth Sutter, Nazareth's new music teacher whose dream is a band comprising students from all three schools.

Sister Beth is busy on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at Nazareth Academy where she teaches instrumental music and works with the Nazareth band. In the grammar schools she has planded and performed two assemblies in each school to show the children all sorts of musical instruments to arouse their interest in playing them. A fast moving game, "name that tune" has fostered the enthusiasm. Not only were the students fascinated with the instruments but also wondered, "Can she (Sr. Beth) play all of them?

Sister Beth teaches private lessons each Tuesday at Sacred Heart and each Thursday at Holy Rosary. Her assemblies have made her full schedule even fuller but it has also brought her closer to her dream - each Wednesday afternoon, the halls of Nazareth are echoing with the beginning sounds of an interscholastic band.
