

With the Children

He spoke with children prior to their Confirmations.

At the Auburn Correctional Facility, Bishop Hogan comforted a crying youngster by putting his skull-cap on the child's head. The tears were soon turned to giggles.

The exceptional child was his special love. He saw to it that the School of the Holy Childhood would be housed in the same building as the Pastoral Center.

He loved them and they loved him, at celebrations of the liturgy...

...and in large crowds.

He would regale children with his musical abilities (or lack of them).

During a recent Catholic Schools Week, he joined a parochial school choir for a concert in Middletown.
