Students from St. Rita's Tour Courts, Sheriff's Office

The eighth grade class of St. Rita's School in Webster had a first hand look at the local judicial system in action recently. The students were given a tour of courtrooms, met with three local judges and toured the county Sheriff's Office.

Judge Raymond Cornelius' Family Court was the first stop. Judge Cornelius explained the type of cases handled by Family Court and gave examples of what was meant by various judicial terms. The students had a chance to ask the judge questions and to view four actual cases.

The next stop was Judge Andrew Siracuse's office. Judge Siracuse explained to the students the various levels of courts in the system and how a legal matter would eventually work its way through the judicial system by means of appeals. He pointed out which courts have original jurisdiction and how it happened that County Court now handles only criminal cases. Siracuse also introduced his court attendants and explained the role each played.

The class then visited Judge Donald Mark in County Court. He explained what "charging" a jury meant and what instructions he gives them to make sure they are informed of how to properly decide on a case.

The students left the court rooms and visited the Monroe County Sheriff's Office where chief of detectives Anthony Yazback and Lt. Daniel Wright, head of the juvenile division, explained some of the problems they face in regard to youth crime. The students then broke up into small groups to tour the other departments

Communications was a highlight of the tour and even though they were very busy taking calls at the time, the personnel were willing to demonstrate the various capabilities of their division.

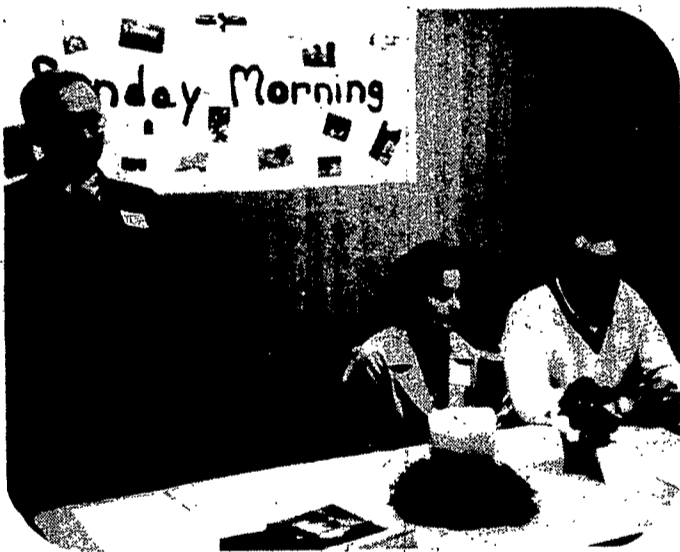

On the return to Webster students expressed their appreciation to the people who dedicated their time to explain the judicial system, including Rosemary Blickwede who arranged the tour.

St. John's, Fairport

St. John of Rochester, Fairport, reports that the "We the Parish" program conducted recently was a complete success. Some 119 parishioners took part in the four part program, aimed at building and strengthening the parish community at St. John's.

The steering committee for the program consisted of Thomas and Margaret Cleary, James and Patricia Roman and John and Donna Jensen. They said that this program was not an end but a "beginning of the spirit of community at St. John's."

A follow up session has been held to obtain feedback from participants. The steering committee members feel the possibility of a second program "in the near future is very real."

St. John's, Humboldt Street

Continuing the theme of spiritual refurbishment of the parish community, St. John the Evangelist Church (Humboldt Street) has scheduled "Three Nights on Prayer" for its Lenten program.

On two of the three nights there will be a special program for youth.

Sunday evening, March 4 Father Robert Kennedy, director of the diocesan Office of Liturgy, will give a presentation on "How Prayer Can Be a Greater Source of Strength in My Life."

On Monday, March 5 Msgr. William Shannon, chairman of Religious Studies at Nazareth College, will speak on "How Does a Person Have a 'Spiritual Experience?'"

The final program, Tuesday, March 6 will open with a talk by Father Charles Mulligan, diocesan director of Social Ministry, on "Do We Really Need to Go Beyond Private Prayer?"

After each presentation there will be group discussions and shared prayers, with socializing afterwards.

The youth program will begin on Sunday evening March 4 and the second will be on Tuesday, March 6. All the programs will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the church at 549 Humboldt St., off Winton Road North.

St. James, Rochester

The St. James Rosary Society will present a filmstrip titled "The Holy Shroud of Turin" on Monday, March 5 following the recitation of the Rosary at 8:15 p.m. All are welcome to attend the program at St. James, 130 Brett Rd.

Holy Name, Rochester

A special Lenten program is being planned at Holy Name parish, St. Martin's Way in Greece. "Rediscovering Compassion" is a five-part series of discussions scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. on Sundays during Lent.

The first topic will be Understanding the Plight of the Divorced Catholic, given by Sister Kathleen Kircher, SSJ, on March 4. Sister Katie Vaeth will present a talk on the Rochester Catholic Worker and its two houses, the Bethany House, for women, and St. Joseph's House for men on March 11.

Richard and Kay Kurz will speak on how to understand handicapped persons and how to make their lives a little easier, March 18. Kenneth Siegal and the Cephas Attica volunteers will give a presentation entitled Why do people visit prisoners?, and the International Justice and Peace Commission for the diocese will talk on Amnesty International.

For further information interested persons may call Denise Mack at 621-6343.

St. Mary's, Canandaigua

Canandaigua Parish Council members of St. Mary's here will participate in a Retreat Day on Saturday, March 3 from 9 a.m. - 4:15 p.m. The retreat will be conducted by Sister Judith McKay at St. Mary's Convent.
