A Salute and a Welcome

1979-80

JULIA LENHARD
Our Lady of Mercy

It's been a banner year for RapAround in taking first place with the National Catholic Press Association for Best Youth Coverage. The merits of RapAround were described by the judging critique as "A wealth of news about young people, pictures, names, activities — well laid out, interesting and altogether a very lively section."

RapAround can be nothing but lively with the young people it has working behind it. It is these young men and women who represent RapAround in their respective schools as coordinators, who have made RapAround so successful. They are enthusiastic, dedicated and always willing to put that extra ounce of energy into doing their jobs right.

And in recognizing their contributions, RapAround wishes to thank them, say good-bye to those who are graduating and welcome those who are joining the RapAround cortege of coordinators. Over the past year RapAround has been honored to have been associated with . . .

Mark Hill, Aquinas, who quietly worked behind the scenes keeping his school in the RapAround pages. Mark will attend Clarkson College for courses in engineering . . . Linda Schiefen, who has been with RapAround two years — a tour of service which she has handled efficiently and always with a smile. She will go on to Monroe Community College for nursing . . . Carrie Schreiner from Cardinal Mooney who is an efficient worker, whether it is performing her office services for the school or her coordinating duties for RapAround. She will enter Nazareth College this Fall to pursue Spanish and Business Administration . . . Allie D'Amico from Geneva DeSales who will also attend Nazareth College for Art. She was awarded a Presidential Scholarship by the college which is just one of the many honors she achieved during her high school years . . . George Falcon from McQuaid is off to St. Bonaventure to study Psychology and Social Science. This summer he expects to travel to the wilds of Canada to spend a few weeks with the bear and moose on an island reachable only by canoe . . .

The twin coordinators over at Nazareth, Corrine and Eileen Connolly are continuing their affiliation with RapAround. They go into their senior years with many expectations, especially with the hope of traveling to Spain. "I like the responsibilities," Corrine said about being a coordinator and added, "It's taught me a lot about deadlines . . . Mary Beth O'Brien, who graduates from Notre Dame in Elmira, will attend St. Mary's College in South Bend, Indiana, for either a major in business or medical technology. Aside from her duties as RapAround coordinator, Mary Beth has worked on the yearbook (Credo) staff, was secretary of the National Honor Society, a member of the Homecoming Court and was involved with the Elmira-Corning Ballet Company . . .

Julia Lenhard, over at Our Lady of Mercy, besides conscientiously handling her coordinator tasks was busy as a reporter on the Quill staff. She also participates in St. Dismas' sewing classes for the residents of the Rochester State Hospital and works part-time at the Sisters of Mercy Infirmary. Expecting her senior year to be a hectic one, Julia is passing her coordinator's status onto Linda Cullen and her team of assistants . . . Barb Hellenschmidt and Tamie DiNolfo worked in tandem over at St. Agnes, meeting RapAround deadlines, setting up interviews and keeping the news coming from 300 River Blvd. Barb is enrolled at Nazareth College where she will pursue law and Tamie is off to Union College where she will major in Biology.

And it's welcome to those who are joining the RapAround staff . . .

Jim Tacci . . . Aquinas, a member of Sacred Heart parish, is a personable young man, quick to smile and easy to talk with — two traits which will help him in his RapAround duties . . . Janet Infarinato, Bishop Kearney, said the main challenge of being a RapAround coordinator will be "Finding out what's going on and finding out about all the activities in school" . . . her co-coordinator, Rosa Ferrera, likes cooking Italian food and credits her mother with everything she knows about this culinary art . . .

Karen Kuhn, from Cardinal Mooney, who adds RapAround to her busy schedule as secretary for the NFPA, president of the school's Red Cross Service organization and is on the yearbook staff . . . and is Tom Rickey, DeSales junior, who is really into journalism. He is currently on the reporting staff of the Finger Lakes Times and according to Ed Tracy, DeSales principal, that organization is impressed with his ability . . .

Chris DiPasquale, McQuaid, is no stranger to the RapAround job. His brother Phil, now a sophomore at Holy Cross College, was also a coordinator while attending McQuaid. Chris is into dramatics, a member of the Glee Club, the school's Big brother organization and as senior will be editor of the Lance . . . Mary Joan Glanton will be a senior at Notre Dame in Elmira. Her three high school years have been busy ones — freshman year she was on the Maryleaf staff. She is a member of the cheerleading squad, plays JV basketball and has coached CYO cheerleaders. She is also a member of the Spanish Club and National Honor Society . . .

Linda Cullen from Our Lady of Mercy will be leading a team of coordinators — Maureen Lawlick, Celeste Schantz and Beth Ann Weider. Linda attends the Eastman

School of music as a voice student and she likes all types of music except rock and prefers singing Broadway show tunes . . . Cindy DeWitt over at St. Agnes is from Good Shepherd parish and is looking forward to her junior year especially the ring ceremony and Junior Prom. Besides sewing she likes preparing french dishes and "pretty good" is the way she describes her quiche Lorraine . . . her co-coordinator, Liz Flow, also a junior, takes courses in art and names Vincent Van Gogh as her favorite artist. She is excited about her duties with RapAround because she will gain experience in writing and will see how a paper works.
