

Religious Series Scheduled for TV

Father John Powell, SJ, will be coming to Rochester via TV this summer. Channel 21 will carry his series "Free to be Me" at the following times; Saturdays, July 14, 21, 28 — 9-10 a.m. and will be repeated on Tuesdays, July 17, 24, 31 from noon to 1 p.m.

Since programs from WXXI are picked up by 16 cable companies, the series will be able to reach a large number of parishes of the diocese.

In this series Father Powell probes what it means to be a person who is fully alive. He explores the meaning of freedom and its relationship to the way we think and feel about ourselves, other people, life, the world and God.

The series is appearing on WXXI at the request of the Office of Religious Education with the endorsement of Genesee Ecumenical Ministries. Transcripts and discussion guides at $1 each are available to encourage people to cluster for viewing and to follow up the program with discussion, reflection, and mutual support. For information about the series or to obtain materials contact the Office of Religious Education, Sister Jane Geiger, 328-3210.

51st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Izzo of Washington Avenue will celebrate their 51st wedding anniversary on July 3, with a Mass at St. Thomas the Apostle Church and a family dinner at Barry's.

Fr. Geiger Notes 25th

Father William G. Geiger, CSSR, son of the late George and Gertrude Bradler Gieger of Rochester, will observe the 25th Anniversary of his ordination as a Redemptorist Father at 10:30 a.m. on June 24 with a Mass at St. Andrew's Church. Father Gieger has served with his community in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio, in administrative, educational and pastoral capacities.

All in the Family

By Sarah Child

... And He Must Like Dogs

The older daughter and I are having a conversation about men at the supper table. It is in jest of course — she's only 14 — but as often is the case in this kind of bantering there is a serious vein running underneath.

Sarah Child

When it comes time for her to pick a husband (15 years hence I think optimistically) she must look for certain characteristics.

He must be good (morally sound) and kind, intelligent and have a strong sense of humor. Absence of any one of those virtues is a serious defect. "And, of course, he must like dogs," I conclude. The other four at the table give me one of those looks which mean "she's gone off the deep end again" and resume eating their beans and hot dogs.

The last is not a prerequisite for all women only for those who like dogs. And she does.

Thus, if she can find a mate who feels the same it will save her a lot of grief. I should know.

Some of her father's and my very best fights have been over our dog Clementine.

He takes umbrage over the fact that every morning at 6 when the paperboy opens the storm door to put the paper inside the dog goes into hysterics. He thinks after 2 years the animal should know that the kid is friend, not foe.

He also takes issue with floating dog hairs, window sills pawed to the bare wood and then some (the dog likes looking out the window) and the fact that she doesn't like to eat her supper until we start ours.

In retaliation he calls Clem who is definitely a she, IT.

In recent months he appears to have mellowed somewhat toward the dog and there is the increasing possibility that he is not as adverse to this particular mutt as he sometimes make out.

The dog meets him at the door with the same unalloyed joy whether he has been gone for half an hour or two weeks, indicating perhaps, that behind our backs he has given her some cause for such devotion.

Farewell Mass

The diocesan Office of Black Ministries has scheduled a farewell celebration for Father Jerome Robinson at 12:15 Mass, Sunday, June 24, at Immaculate Conception Church in Rochester.

The OBM, Immaculate and St. Bridget's choirs will combine efforts for a special musical program. A coffee-hour will follow the Mass.
