

Souvenir Edition

The Courier-Journal publishes this special installation edition as a keepsake for its readers.

Since the announcement on May 2 that Matthew H. Clark would become the eighth bishop of Rochester, we have been working to provide as full an introduction of our new spiritual leader as possible.

Now all the events of recent weeks — the announcement, the ordination, the arrival of our new bishop in Rochester — have culminated in his installation at the Community War Memorial.

Besides providing news, background and pictorial coverage of the life, the times and the family of Bishop Clark, this souvenir edition also includes informative and educational articles concerning the episcopal office — its external signs and its traditions. And there are also stories of Rochester's other bishops — those who served here and those who were assigned elsewhere.

In addition, we have provided space for the new friends and associates of Bishop Clark to welcome him to our diocese in their own words.

The full color portrait on the front page was taken by Rochester photographer Vito Vitelli for this souvenir edition.

All in all, the issue captures the moment and will prove a valuable keepsake of the historic event for our diocese and the larger community as well.
