

Charismatic Mass

More than 1400 people from all over the diocese attended a charismatic Mass last Friday, at Sacred Heart Cathedral. During the event, Father James Connolly, SJ, was formally installed as liaison with the service committee for the charismatic movement. Left, and lower left, participants raise their hands during prayers of praise. Below, Bishop Matthew H. Clark, who presided at the rites, speaks to the congregation as an interpreter signs his words for the deaf. With the bishop is Father Connolly.

Throughout the congregation babies were held in the loving arms of their parents.

Holy Family Celebrates Family Year

Almost 700 people gathered at Holy Family Church on Sunday to open the parish Year of the Family.

Bishop Matthew H. Clark

concelebrated the opening Mass with Father Frederick F. Eisemann, pastor; Father Leo Reinhardt, priest intern; and Father Charles Latus.

Both the parish choir and the folk group provided the music for the occasion which saw the 112-year-old church filled with families from the increasingly diverse ethnic neighborhoods surrounding it.

Following the Mass, a reception was held for the bishop in the parish hall.

Libraries Offer 'Toddler' Books

The youngest "readers" in the world are being courted by the public libraries of Monroe County. Books designed for children one to three years old are available in 38 of the 39 libraries — Fairport being the exception. The books, which the library system calls "Toddlers," are made of cloth, cardboard and a heavy laminated material, so that little fingers can learn to turn pages. There are 118 books in each collection for the youngsters to borrow or use while their parents browse.
