Carnation Delight

The Cardinal Mooney class decided its treasury needed to be cushioned and formulated an idea that fit in with their financial enterprise — have classmates purchase a carnation and send it — anonymously — to a student of their choice on Valentine's Day. Above the initiators of the flower program: Larry Blum, president of the class; Dennis Calhane, vice president; Martha Miller, secretary; John Babocsi, treasurer.

Nazareth Plans Oliver

The public is invited and tickets will be available at the door for Nazareth Academy's presentation of "Oliver", Friday, March 14 and Saturday, March 15, 8 p.m.

The cast includes Paula Cuccaro as Oliver, Maria Bellavia as Dodger, Betty Dolce as Fagin, Kathy Browne as Nancy, Tony Edelman, a senior at Marshall High School, will portray Bill Sikes and John Lucash from Aquinas will be Mr. Sowerberry.

Faculty members Ms. Ellen Secci, Sisters Donna Marie Cucci, Elizabeth Sutter and Ms. Maria Sanguedolce are director, musical director, orchestra director and set designer, respectively. Susan Kruetter is choreographer and student Karoline Luciano is stage manager.

RPYO In Concert

The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Isaiah Jackson and the RPO Youth Orchestra, Howard Weiss, conductor, will perform in concert, Sunday, March 2, 7:30 p.m. in the Eastman Theatre. Members of the Youth Orchestra from area Catholic high schools include Angie Pabalan from Cardinal Mooney, and the Pegis brothers, Gabe and Joylan, from McQuaid.

BK seniors Beth and Robert are happy with the recognition given them by the Monroe Professional Engineers Society.

Future Engineers Win Scholarships

Robert Cronin and Beth Laffey, seniors at Bishop Kearney High School, have received two of the scholarships awarded annually by the Monroe Professional Engineers Society and its Auxiliary to area students who plan engineering studies in college.

Robert ranks third in his class, is president of the BK National Honor Society, plays soccer and is on the track team. He intends to study chemical engineering at the University of Buffalo.

Beth, who ranks seventh in the class, is also a member of the National Honor Society, is active on the school newspaper, and does community volunteer work. She will study chemical engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

The award winners, and their parents were honored guests at the Scholarship Dinner of the Monroe Professional Engineers Society at the University Club on Feb. 9. Guest speaker was Dr. Richard Kenyon, dean of Engineering at Rochester Institute of Technology who discussed the question, "Engineer: Saint or Sinner?"

Winners were further introduced to the engineering community during National Engineers Week at a dinner, Feb. 21.

What do you find confusing in our society?

BISHOP KEARNEY

DONNA LUCZAK
Senior

"Society tells you not to do something, that it is wrong, and yet you turn around and find society doing it. What some people think is right others don't, so I guess a person either has to do the same thing or the individual will have to go their own way and perhaps change things. In a way this is a better way but people have to learn to cope with it."

PATTI PIPA
Senior

"The way it's changing — all the norms are changing. The way young people's values are changing; there's no respect. The one big thing that troubles me and others are careers and how to stay employed. This is the main concern of youth today."

ANNA DRUZIAGO
Senior

"I find the morals are confusing. Parents say you shouldn't do one thing yet everyone else is doing it and society seems to condone any action. I feel there isn't a strict line between right and wrong anymore. I think this isn't all bad except the individual has to learn to cope with it."

FLORENCE ALONCI
Senior

"Differences between generations and the social pressures because you want to please the older generation but you also want to go with your peers and society doesn't give any guidelines about which way to go. It's always going to be that way with every generation and so the individual has to learn to go his or her own way."

LYN COSTELLO
Senior

"When we leave school we set different goals than our parents, and we set our goals too high. It seems that once out in society things become mediocre. I also think that when we get out into society we're going to find it more difficult than what we thought. I feel, however, that their education and upbringing make the young adults able to cope with society."

JOANNE MONACHINO
Senior

"Peer pressure; whatever your friends do you do along with them — you can't be yourself and society seems to condone this. People have to be themselves and think their own way no matter what people say — you have to think things out for yourself."

ANNA JACKIW
Senior
social board

"I think job wise — now days you go to college because you think that if you don't you won't find a job but in reality it doesn't seem to make a difference, especially since the cost of college is so expensive as compared to what you're going to make when you graduate and go to work."

TOM PANZARELLA
Senior

"People don't care about anything — everyone is lazy and expects everything to be given to them. If they can take the easy way out that's the way they'll go. It's bad for the country and what's confusing is that our society is letting this happen. We need a crisis to show people they have to begin thinking differently."

Academic Honors

McQuaid On Stage

On Tuesday, March 4, McQuaid will hold a sneak preview of its upcoming presentation of "The Pajama Game" for the students. The show will open on the St. Agnes stage, Thursday, March 6 and will run through Saturday, March 8.
