"THE DEATH OF A CHILD"

Death is a shock to each of us. We are seldom prepared for the abrubt end of a life that is important to us. Sometimes we may see it as a blessing for a loved one who has suffered through an accident or a lingering disease—but, more often, we do not accept it easily.

Such is usually the case in the death of a small child, no matter Such is usually the case in the death of a small-child, no matter what the cause. We search in vain for a reason—and, of course, none can be found. Even, though we know life holds no-guarantee of physical eternity, we still think of death as ar-bitrary, striking at random, with no plan or purpose. We waitch it take, hot give—with no consideration of our wants or needs. Perhaps worst of all, it is the one part of life we feel we have little of no control over. The death of a young person calls upon all the faith we can muster in our God. With Him, and the comfort and love of our friends, we must once again look ahead. learning to cherish each moment and looking afresh at our own lives. If we can, we must let our own lives take on greater meaning and value because of the life that won't be lived by someone we loved.

Your questions about the death of a child can be answered in more detail by a member of our staff. Call or stop by. Use our lending library, audio visual aids, and audio cassettes on dying, death, bereavement, and related subjects. We are available for group discussions.
