

Working on a wreath to be sold at the Seton Sale are, from left, Ellen Wrona, Maureen Beyel, Ann Bish and Ruth Morris.

More articles that can be purchased at the Seton Sale this weekend are exhibited by, from left, Pat Gartland, Marguerite Seril and Ellen Wrona, chairman of Seton.

Seton Sale co-chairmen Pat Hammele, left, and Lucille Loder show off a beautiful hand-stitched quilt.

Seton Prepares Fund-Raising

More than 800 members of the Seton branches of St. Mary's Hospital are hard at work on a multitude of fund-raising projects. In the past, they have provided well over half a million dollars used for many hospital projects including the coronary care area, out-patient and emergency departments, ultra-sound equipment, Neuroscience Unit, and communications systems.

This year, Seton has made a $300,000 pledge over the next three years to raise funds to be used toward the renovation of surgical facilities at St. Mary's. The 1980 portion of those funds will go to the Ambulatory Medical/Surgical Center, an area where care is provided for patients who do not require overnight hospitalization.

The two annual major Seton fund-raising events are approaching quickly. The Seton Sale, slated for Saturday, Oct. 25, offers an exciting array of handcrafted gifts as well as a luncheon, swimathon, bake sale, flea market, indoor garden, and silent auction. The sale is from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at Nazareth College's Otto Shults Center.

It's a good bet for Christmas shopping, as everything is offered from mittens to patchwork quilts, Christmas ornaments to the Seton cookbook. Co-chairmen Lucille Loder and Pat Hammele have planned a fun-filled day of bargains and surprises.

Following shortly thereafter, on Saturday, Nov. 22, is the elegant Seton Charity Ball. Founded by Bishop James E. Kearney to "open the Rochester social season" in 1955, the Ball is celebrating its silver anniversary this year. A beautiful evening at the Americana Hotel has been arranged by chairman Cay Salamone and her assistant, Peg Byrne.

Barb Kircher, left, and Pat Nemes inspect some of the fashions to be shown at the Seton fashion show and luncheon slated for next March.