

A Letter to Newlyweds

Tenderly you touch each other's hands. Gently you look into each other's eyes. Your voices often become hushed and you speak to each other in our midst. Special smiles pass between you . . . your love for each other speaks to us so clearly and concisely. You are a living, breathing and very appealing invitation to fall in love with each other all over again . . .

We find ourselves looking into each other's eyes and saying, "Oh, yes, I remember . . ." What a blessing your love for each other is for us.

Never let us tell you it is "kid stuff." Answer us that we need to be "kids" with you. Don't listen if we tell you that this will pass with garbage to be taken out and lawns to be mowed and dirty socks and diapers. Just smile and whisper to us that it doesn't have to. Help us believe that marriage is not the end of romance but a commitment to living romance as a lifestyle. Help us look at you and then turn to each other and say, can you hear us? We are telling you how very, very much we need you. You are the living memory of how we began . . . and you are the promise of how we can continue.

Thank you

Gift Ideas

A pasta maker — the kind that looks like a small meat grinder. These have interchangeable disks to make spaghetti and pretzels and all the goodies new cooks like to try.

Champagne or sparkling wine is an unexpected gift for a couple planning to entertain either guests or themselves. It keeps until needed, and there are no sizes or colors to be concerned with.

Who else would think to give a dozen hand-dipped candles to match the good dishes? Few brides are forgotten when the candlesticks are passed out, but nobody remembers the candles.

Many quality cleaners offer a package price for cleaning and sealing in a special storage bag the wedding gown to be saved for a daughter.

Borrow the couple's wedding photographs and have a duplicate wedding bouquet or corsage made up in silk flowers.

If a couple is moving out of town, a subscription to the hometown newspaper to undo the homesickness.
