Religious Education Staffer To Be Hired for Southern Tier

Horseheads — The appointment of a Religious Education Department staff member stationed in the Southern Tier was announced at a meeting which took place at St. Mary Our Mother April 10.

Sister Roberta Tierney, diocesan Education Division director, told the parish religious education coordinators and priests attending that the department has decided to replace a staff member leaving the Rochester office with a new employee to serve in the Southern Tier.

In explaining the staff realignment, Sister Roberta said that it is "very important that services are available to people where they need them," and that the change will fill requests from the area for assistance "in our backyard."

The Religious Education Department will be the third diocesan organization to station full-time staff members outside Rochester. The Social Ministry division and the Courier-Journal have Southern Tier offices which opened in 1976.

Sister Roberta noted following the meeting that she expects the new staff member to have an office in the St. Peter and Paul, Elmira, school building, where the Southern Tier Office of Social Ministry is located.

Those attending the meeting heard the role of the staff member clarified, and identified needs in the area.

Mrs. Anna Black of St. Patrick's, Corning, expressed the need for help in setting up classes for the handicapped.

Mrs. Virginia Stanton of St. Mary Our Mother, and the Chemung-Schuyler field representative, called for help for parishes which don't have religious education programs.

Others asked for help in implementing the new sacramental guidelines and with family programs.

Sister Roberta asked about the type of person who should be hired for the job. Mrs. Stanton spoke for a "people person" who would be able to work closely with parish staffs. Others spoke for someone familiar with the area, and qualified to work with a variety of programs.

The job description which was distributed calls for the person to spend 80 percent of his or her time on Southern Tier projects, and the remainder on work on a diocesan level, which, Sister Roberta said, probably will be determined after hiring.

Listed objectives include identifying local concerns and curricula, and work on adult education. The staff person also will help plan programs and build audio-visual and print resources as needed.

Plans call for the person to start work July 1, she said, with the summer used for orientation and familiarization.

Listed requirements for the position are a master's degree in religious studies or equivalent, and experience in coordinating parish religious education programs. The salary range is $14,000 to $19,000. Staff support from a part-time secretary also is included in the description.

The experience with the Southern Tier staffing could influence future moves in the eastern portion of the diocese, she said, and in the Yates-Ontario-Wayne Region.

While expressing the view that the person hired will be extremely busy, covering five Southern Tier counties alone, those attending the meeting were enthusiastic about the potential of the new arrangement.

Benefit Dance Slated

Hornell — The Women's Board of St. James Mercy Hospital will sponsor its annual dance, with the theme "May Time is Fun Time," Saturday, May 2, at the Hornell Country Club.

This year's event will feature dancing to the music of Al Cecechi and the Modernaires, and hors d'oeuvres starting at 9 p.m., for $5 per person.

The dance will benefit two important projects, the DeSales Student Nurse Award and the Hospital Equipment Fund. It is the only fund raising project for the DeSales Student Nurse Award. The $2,000 award is presented annually to a student entering the junior year at St. James Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, selected by the Award Committee after a careful review of financial need and scholastic record.

It also will aid the purchase of automatic, self-regulating IV infusion pumps to help the hospital maintain high medical standards that are so important for quality care.

The dance committee includes Mrs. James Griffin, Mrs. William Argentieri, Mrs. Joseph Tolan, and Mrs. Earl Coleman, assisted by Mrs. John Watt and Margaret Lynch.

Reservations for the dance, or donations, may be sent to: Mrs. Joseph Daniels, 67 Oak St., Hornell, or St. James Mercy Hospital.

CCGEB Approves Budget

Elmira — The 1981-82 budget for the Elmira Catholic schools received unanimous approval at the Chemung County General Education Board meeting April 16.

The $768,000 budget was voted upon after a brief discussion concerning the calculation of the parish assessments, and the expression of long-term concerns by two parish councils. St. Patrick's and Our Lady of Lourdes councils asked that the system study its assessment formula and ways to reduce expenditures.

The budget had been previously reviewed at the March CCGEB meeting and in meetings of various groups.

Registration for the coming year is 51 for the pre-school, and 759 for kindergarten through grade eight. Gail Callahan, school system business manager, told the board.

Noting the current K-8 enrollment of 838, members determined that the potential enrollment for next year would be about 800. Martin Tracy, board president, and board members emphasized the need for those additional students to be registered.

The board then had a general discussion of ways to increase enrollment, especially noting the need to contact those families currently in the system who have yet to register for next year.

The board approved a motion instructing the principals to request scheduling for swimming instruction through the Elmira City School District for next year. At the same time, it asked the principals to prepare an evaluation of this year's participation in the program to be presented at the board's May meeting.

Thomas Klotz reported on the work being done on the system's festival, scheduled for June 20, 21 at Dunn Field. The board also agreed to a principals' proposal that the board sponsor a program on Teacher Recognition Day, May 20, to jointly thank all the system's teachers.
