Discover Third Choice

Sunday's Readings: (R3) Mt. 13:44-52. (R1) 1 Kgs. 3:5, 7-12. (R2) Rom 8:28-30.

Hubert Humphrey's father was a druggist in a small town in South Dakota. Hubert liked to tell the story of another druggist who was dissatisfied with the profits at the soda fountain. To up the sales, he suggested to his clerks to ask customers if they would like an egg in their malted milk shakes. This would cost more and the sales would rise. But sales did not rise — people, offered the choice of an egg or no egg, generally opted for the usual: no egg.

So the druggist revised his question and instructed his clerks to face their customers wanting a malted milk with an egg in each hand and ask, "Would you like one egg or two in your malted milk?" When the question was put like that, the customers lost sight of their third option — no egg — and the sales receipts began to rise!

Life usually comes at us in this polarized fashion: two choices, either/or, this way or that, one egg or two. The result is we often lose sight of the fact that more often than not in cases of moral judgment there is a third choice. And often it is in discerning, discovering, this third choice that many a knotty problem can be satisfactorily solved.

In next Sunday's first reading, Solomon asks God for discernment as he begins his kingship. His prayer is beautiful: "Give your servant an understanding heart... to distinguish right from wrong." (R1)

Discernment is the ability to come up with that third choice when only two seem to present themselves. Two harlots came to Solomon; both claimed to be the mother of one child. Only two choices seemed present:

give the child to one or the other. With discernment, however, Solomon was able to come up with a third choice, and it was a wise and clever way to settle the case.

Jesus evidenced this same discernment when confronted with the woman taken in adultery and with paying taxes. The Scribes and Pharisees seemingly had Him cornered with just two options: stone her or free her; pay taxes or don't. But with discernment, Jesus came up with third choices: "He who is without sin, let him cast the first stone"; and, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

I think there is such a hassle over "birth control," because seemingly there are only two choices that present themselves. Thanks to Dr. Billings, a third choice has been discovered: Natural Family Planning or the Sympto-Thermic, Double-Check Method.

Of course there are some areas where there are only two choices — a right and a wrong one. Winston Churchill once faced with such a choice said, "You cannot ask us to take sides against arithmetic." In logic, philosophers put it this way: "Against a fact an argument is not valid."

But still, most of life's decisions, especially in the area of moral judgment, are multiple choice. Military men have an old saying: "There is the right way, the wrong way, and the Army way."

"Choice is at the center of life," wrote Toynbee. "Civilizations rise or fall on the basis of great decisions. And sometimes those important decisions aren't always the most viable ones."
