

New Look in Old Jerusalem

The arch of historic Ramban Synagogue stands against a filtered sky in Jerusalem's Old City, as if issuing a call to worship. The temple is located in the reconstructed Jewish quarter. (RNS)

The Open Window

The Church Has Room

Dear Father Hohman,

In response to your "Open Window," 3/18/81, may our dear Lord bless you for your truthfulness and as a result of "hitting the nail on the head."

A few years ago I read an article giving the results of a survey of why people stopped going to church. The largest number credited their "unchurched" status to the hypocrites in the Church. They couldn't take them anymore. How well I can understand their loss.

Our Church is so divided by "specialist groups" that it would be impossible to keep going to Mass if it weren't for the recognizable Consecration giving us the precious Body and Blood of Our Lord.

You have the charismatics who try to lead you to believe they know all the answers and are the only ones who do. The different ministries make each group "better than the rest."

Added to all the "been around for a while" groups we now have "the Renewal Weekend." Interesting these elite groups shower their enthusiasm and LOVE?? on each other and continue to be brutal to the outsiders.

Dear RN,

There are certain things I must share with you even

Naples Plans Arts Fest

Naples — The third annual Naples Art and Music Festival has been slated for Sept. 19, and 20 on the grounds of the Naples Memorial Town Hall.

Maureen Abraham is directing the art display, and Scott Kickbush and Judy Bennett are directing the musical events.

though they are not as complimentary as your opening paragraph to me.

First, I think people who leave the Church because of the hypocrites do not understand what Church means. For them the Church is composed of people who are already saints and therefore have the right to associate with one another and to associate with God. That is not the idea of Church at all.

The Church of Jesus Christ is composed of struggling sinners who are eager to support one another and to find in the saving power of the Lord what is needed to overcome their wretchedness and sinfulness. I venture to say from 35 years experience that if there is a tenth of one percent real hypocrites in the Church, I would be greatly surprised.

Now as to your problem with "specialist groups." It is extremely important especially today to recognize the difference between unity and uniformity. Many people seem to think that unity consists in uniformity. Unity, however, means the ability and the desire and the love which enables people who aren't very different to come together and be one with the Lord. In other words, we don't have to be the same to be united. I don't know whether you are aware of it or not but for all of these hundreds of years there have been at least 11 different rites in the Church, which means substantial differences in ways of worship and discipline. But we are still united in the Lord Jesus Christ under the leadership of the Holy Father. The one way you can discern that the Holy Spirit is not with any particular group is that that group tends to separate itself from the rest, or refuses to recognize the diversity of the others.

We don't need sameness — we need oneness. Sorry I had to disagree with you, but I hope you will take it in the spirit in which it is presented. Thank you for your kind letter.

Guidelines

The Courier-Journal welcomes your opinions. Letters must bear the writer's signature, full address and telephone number. They should be sent to Opinion, Courier-Journal, 114 S. Union St., Rochester, N.Y. 14607.

Opinions should be brief, typed, double-spaced, no longer than 1 1/2 pages.

We routinely condense letters, edit offensive words and libelous statements, and reserve the right to reject letters. Generally speaking, however, only limited grammatical corrections will be made and the letters will reflect the writer's own style.

Because submitted opinions exceed the space for letters, we publish only original letters addressed to us. We will not use poetry, open letters, or copies of letters sent elsewhere. To ensure diversity, we limit each writer to one letter per month.

Pontiff's Column

As Pope John Paul II convalesces this summer, and refrains from pursuing his ordinarily rigorous schedule of addresses, the Courier-Journal will temporarily suspend its practice of publishing excerpts from his talks.

Stamp with a Message

This postage stamp dedicated to the International Year of the Disabled Person was designed by artist Martha Perske of Darien, Conn., whose illustrations in various books have won her wide acclaim. In preparation for the stamp project, Ms. Perske conducted a series of nationwide interviews with disabled people and the professionals who help them. From this contact, she arrived at the theme for the stamp design, "Disabled doesn't mean Unable." (RNS)
