

Father William Amann stands outside the old Hamlin railroad depot, the current site of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Church. The parish celebrated its first Mass there on Easter Sunday.

Depot Now a Church

Mrs. Janette Dollard, longtime Hamlin resident now deceased, stated some time ago: "Someday there'll be a parish church in Hamlin and it's gonna start right here (this train station)!"

Mrs. Dollard has turned out to be a prophet because there is indeed a parish in Hamlin these days and it celebrated its first regular Eucharist together on Easter Sunday in that very spot — the old train depot — with an altar fashioned from railroad ties and a railroad lantern as sanctuary lamp.

Father William Amann, pastor of the new St. Elizabeth Ann Seton parish, has been busy at all the varied and sundry details in establishing the Christian community on the shores of Lake Ontario in the northwest corner of the diocese.

He has announced weekly Masses at the depot at 5 p.m., Saturdays, and 9 and 11 a.m., Sundays.

"We will be using the old train station until we come up with our own building, maybe a year or two," Father Amann said.

He has scheduled the parish's first general meeting for 7:30 p.m., Sunday, April 18, and 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 19, choosing the two dates to give more the opportunity to attend.

"I have had a great deal of help from so many here already," Father Amann said. "For instance, Sharon LaDue, Marie Elphick and Billie Dietrich have been gathering lists of families from neighboring parishes of Nativity, St. Leo's, St. Mark's and the Newman Center (Brockport State)."

"I wrote to them (some 700 families), inviting them to the Easter Mass and to the general parish meetings," Father Amann also sent them forms soliciting ways they may wish to assist the new parish. "Obviously, we need all the help we can get," he said.

Such assistance has been forthcoming from many quarters.

"Many parishes have already offered and donated necessary vestments and furnishings," Father Amann said. "And a donation of $500 came from Father Thomas Reddington who knows what it's like, for he started Holy Name parish from scratch 18 years ago."

Father Amann has been busy in other ways, meeting with parish leaders in neighboring communities, homilizing at Nativity and St. Leo's, visiting St. Mark's and Brockport State Newman Center, meeting with Methodist minister Charles Excell and Lutheran minister Erwin Golterman and visiting Town Supervisor Warren Frank and Town Clerk Beverly Klafehn.

He has also been performing pastoral duties such as visiting the sick and shut-ins.
