Navy Punishes 2 At Nuclear School For Protests

Orlando, Fla. (RNS) — Two sailors have been reduced in rank and dismissed from the Navy's Nuclear Power School here for boycotting classes and refusing to wear their uniforms as a protest against nuclear war.

Petty Officers Brian Kokensparger, 21, and Paul Wheeler, 22, also were fined. Both have requested honorable discharge from the Navy as conscientious objectors.

The two have decided to wear their uniforms under protest while awaiting results of the applications.

They describe themselves as Roman Catholics and said they no longer wish to contribute to the U.S. Navy's "present policy of nuclear deterrence," which they termed "immoral."

Rita Kokensparger said that her son's moral stance developed after he became aware of the Church's opposition to nuclear war and realized that "he would be one of the main people shooting off the nuclear warheads."

Archbishop Runcie Dreams of Unity By Century's End

London (RNS) — Archbishop Robert Runcie of Canterbury, spiritual leader of some 70 million Anglicans worldwide, said in a televised interview here that he dreamed of unity with Rome by the end of the century.

But he also said he envisaged "considerable difficulties" ahead for both churches in unity moves.

The primate of the Church of England said, "I dream of unity with Rome and with the great Reform tradition and with the Orthodox by the end of the century but we will have to get a move on."

Washington (RNS) — President Reagan has ordered the Navy nuclear submarine Corpus Christi to be rechristened The City of Corpus Christi.

The parish staff of Corpus Christi in Rochester joined others across the nation in protesting the name of the submarine "Corpus Christi," objecting to naming a "death machine" for the Prince of Peace.

Insights In Liturgy

By Darlene M. Keating

Parish-Profile Of Role of Music Director

At St. Mary of the Assumption in Scottsville, my primary task as director of music is to provide quality liturgical music, both traditional and contemporary, for the major services. A simple enough assignment for a small suburban parish, but the task becomes more complex (and more challenging) as one discovers the variety of interests in the Church of Scottsville.

The music director is first a resource person. As such, I must know where to find appropriate music for our three music groups: the Junior Choir singing unison or 2-part music; the Folk Group with rather unique instrumentation; and the Adult Choir singing 3- and 4-part English and Latin anthems. Music is used in the elementary church school classes to help teach abstract concepts and to prepare for sacramental celebrations. Suggestions for liturgical wedding music and suitable funeral music must be readily available. And, of course, the hymns and anthems for the Sunday liturgies must be planned with care.

Because the music director works with volunteer musicians who come from diversified musical backgrounds, he/she must be able to discern talents and develop them. Teaching the choir to stagger breathing, showing the Junior Choir how to follow a conductor's beat, instructing a teenager on leading the Folk Group in my absence: these are some of the ways we in Scottsville have grown musically.

Last, but certainly not least, the music director must possess a willingness to learn and grow. This is obviously true in the areas of music and liturgy, but I am also referring to learning more about the people I serve, and growing in my knowledge: understanding is vital if I am to help people to pray. And that is my ultimate responsibility: to help the people of Scottsville pray through music.

The role of director of music is challenging and sometimes frustrating, but at St. Mary of the Assumption it has always been rewarding!

Christ."

Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neil was among those concerned with the naming. He spoke to Michael K. Deaver, White House deputy chief of staff, who carried the message to the president. The president relayed the order to rename the submarine to Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger.

Papal Visit To Poland Is Postponed

Vatican City (RNS) — Pope John Paul's planned visit to Poland in August has been postponed indefinitely, it has been announced by Archbishop Jozef Glemp, the Polish Roman Catholic primate.

Archbishop Glemp, in Rome for talks with the pope, spoke with reporters just before the April 28 general audience. "I think the pope's trip will have to be postponed for a little while," he said.

Asked how long, he said it depended on whether the situation in Poland "calms down."

Just a few weeks before the Dec. 13 martial law crackdown on the Solidarity trade union, the pope had accepted an invitation from the Polish bishops to take part in celebrations marking the 600th anniversary of the arrival in Poland of the Madonna, enshrined at the monastery of Jasna Gora, Czestochowa. It is the nation's most revered religious symbol.

China Charges Vatican with 'Acts of Violence'

Rome (RNS) — China was reported here to have launched a new attack on the Vatican, accusing it of "infiltration" of Chinese religious affairs and of "acts of violence" against China's independent Catholic Church.

In a report from the Chinese capital, the Italian news agency, Ansa, said the official New China News Service had complained recently in an editorial of Vatican interference and urged the Holy See to "change its attitude" toward the government-sponsored Chinese Catholic Patriotic Association, and break diplomatic ties with Taiwan.

"The Vatican perfidiously distorts the real situation in China and affirms with obstinacy that there exists in China a situation of difficulty or religious persecution," the editorial said.

"It has furthermore incited Catholic associations around the world to follow it in its anti-Chinese activities. This is another of the Vatican's acts of open hostility toward China."
