What does the world offer to you as a woman?

ST. AGNES

FELICIA MONGEON
Freshman
WTNT staff

"Yes, it is positive for women out in the world. Right now women can get almost any job, whereas back a few decades ago it wasn't thought that women would work. And women have great opportunities today to become what they want — lawyers, doctors. I think it will continue to get better for women."

LYNETTE CLEMONS
Senior

"I'm very positive about women going out into the world. People are starting to realize we just don't belong in the home. Mainly, those people who think that way, we just have to overlook. I don't see women priests or a woman president for a very long time. Many peoples' attitudes will have to be changed."

JUDI JOHNSON
Sophomore
WTNT staff

"Well, I feel the job market is open but it is still difficult to get half the credit for what we do. Some men feel we are equal but there are still those who don't. You have to make your own way and let the world know that you are going to succeed."

LORI CROPO
Senior

"I feel that the job market is more open and it's easier for a woman to get a job at anything she wants. It's always going to be tough on a woman because I still think there is a lot of sex discrimination against women. We may not have the brawn but we do have brains."

NANCY CAMPA
Sophomore

"I think that people are realizing that women want to be accepted as equals and that they don't want to be considered inferior. I also think there are a lot of opportunities for women and we just have to go out and look for them, and if we have the determination, we can find them. I see the world for women in a positive way and things will keep getting better."

CHERYL DiBERTO
Sophomore

"I think it is more positive than it used to be. The men are starting to realize that women are not as inferior as they think they are. I think eventually women will make it in politics and medicine but it will take time. I see things getting better for women but, again, it will take time."

MONIQUE CIRELLI
Junior
class co-president

"I think the job market is a little more open but we still have to work twice as hard for a job as a male. The sex discrimination is still there and we'll have to fight but we'll do it. There are advancements but we're still not there."

JANE HELLENSCHMIDT
Senior
class co-president

"I'm quite positive that things are looking better for women. We have more opportunities than we ever did. People are starting to treat women with more respect and realize that women can do almost any job, and the women are accepting the challenges."

A Week For Artists

Next week, June 6-11, is Fine Arts Week at St. Agnes High School. Events will include recitals, assemblies and performances and will feature dance, drama, music and art students. The events are scheduled for 4:30 and 7 p.m. on Sunday, June 6; 1:30 to 7:30 p.m., Monday, June 7; and 1:30 p.m., Thursday, June 10. At right, Margaret Kellogg, senior dance major, is rehearsing for her solo dance in "Four Spirituals." Below, student teacher Betsy Ahers (standing) is helping Katherine Gunderson, Wendy Gabriel and Patricia Lombard with their art work for the exhibit.

Loyal Service Rewarded

Lisa Bloomfield and Siobhan Foley, Nazareth Academy seniors, were honored at the May 2 Loyalty Day sponsored by the Monroe County Veterans of Foreign Wars. They were among the more than 75 high school seniors present at the dinner at the Mapledale Party House who received a citation for service to their schools.

Siobhan and Lisa.

Present at the banquet were Congressman Frank Horton who greeted the students and their families, and guest speaker Dr. Ben Richardson of the City School District who exhorted the students "to be what you can be."

Besides serving as class and organization officers, Siobhan and Lisa have devoted hours and energy in their service to Nazareth.

"When something needs to be done," said Sister Elaine Englert, principal, "Siobhan and Lisa are always there. I'm so glad they can be honored in such a nice way."

Both girls plan on attending college (after graduation in June.

Lisa lives with her mother, Mrs. Ralph Bloomfield in Rochester and Siobhan lives with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Foley in Irondequoit.
