

St. Bridget's Slates Afro-American Day

An all-day Afro-American Cultural Workshop will be held 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 2, at St. Bridget's Church, 175 St. Bridget's Drive.

The workshop is designed specifically for daycare children, but children of all ages and their parents are invited to the program of entertainment and educational activities.

The workshop is part of the nine-day Ninth Annual Afro-American Cultural Extravaganza. Included on the agenda are African dancing by the Watoto Dancers and the Lumumba Dancers; an address by James McCuller, executive director of Action for a Better Community; and several workshops.

Leading the smaller sessions will be Mrs. Paula Clark, ABC; Dr. John Walker, diocesan director of the Office of Black Ministries; William A. Pusey, Barbara Jean's Enterprise; and students from the University of Rochester schools of education, nursing, medicine, and engineering.

Rosary Rite

A rosary will be recited in honor of the Birthday of the Blessed Virgin Mary, 8 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 8, at the Wooded Area Shrine, 273 Rye Road, off Latona between Ridgeway and Ridge. Participants are asked to bring lawn chairs, "if convenient."

Drs. Katherine Hunter, Elaine C. Hubbard and Carol Moore of the university will be present.

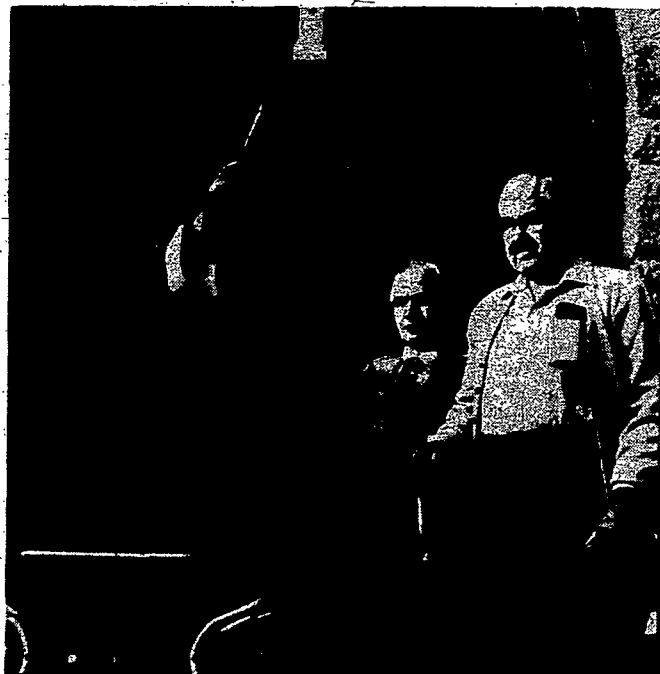

Young people from St. Bridget's Boy Scout Troop 147 and from the First Community Interfaith Institute will also assist in the program.

Although no fee will be charged at the door, and participants may bring their own lunches, foods will be available for purchase.

The entire nine-day event is sponsored by First Community Interfaith Institute, and ABC. In addition, it is being endorsed and promoted by Star Gospel Singers, Calvary/St. Andrew's Church, St. Bridget's Church, Client Council of Monroe County Legal Assistance Corp., Barbara Jean's Enterprise, OBM, Peace and Justice Education Center and Troop 147.

Celebrate

A jovial Father John P. O'Malley regales his former parishioners at Holy Cross Church in Charlotte with a joke during ceremonies commemorating the anniversary of the dedication of the present church building. Right, Father Thomas Wheeland, present pastor, casts holy water from the aspergillum during cornerstone rites also held in the two-day observance. With him are Jack Foy and Joseph Brophy.

Catholic U. Plans Galileo Lectures

Washington — Twelve lectures on the status of Galilean scholarship will be sponsored this Fall by the Catholic University's School of Philosophy.

The series, "Reinterpreting Galileo: His Significance for the History and Philosophy of Science," will begin with three lectures in September and will bring to the university the world's leading Galilean scholars.

The academic year 1982-83 marks the 350th anniversary of the publication of the "Dialogues" and of Galileo's subsequent condemnation. Recent developments in the history and philosophy of science have generated a new interest in Galileo, who was previously thought to stand at the watershed of two worlds — the classic Aristotelian world view on the one side and modern interpretation on the other.

Recent discoveries of William Wallace, OP, a professor of philosophy and history at Catholic U., have exploded the watershed thesis by showing the indebtedness of Galileo to his predecessors; others have shown the problematic character of Galileo's claims given his evidence.
