THOUGHTS TO CONSIDER

EDWIN SULEWSKI

The end of each year . . . and the beginning of the next . . . is always an occasion for both reflection and celebration.

We look back on a year filled with the ups and downs of our everyday life. Perhaps it has been a year which represented a great deal of growth for us . . . in our career, our personal relationships or in our own feelings for life and living. Or, it may have been a difficult time — saddened with illness, or the death of a loved one.

The coming of the new year gives each of us the opportunity to move on from the last — and look forward to a new beginning. Our thoughts on the past year should be used as guides to help us evaluate what we want to find in the year ahead — and as we look forward to the fresh, new time before us, we can clear our minds of that which is now past.

We invite you to join with us in celebrating the New Year — accepting the challenge it offers each of us. A good year is built from living life to its fullest — every single day, and that is perhaps the best New Years resolution any of us can make.
