

RAP AROUND

EQUAL TIME

What outstanding happening or event has made an impact on your life?

BISHOP KEARNEY

PATTY PROVENZALE
Junior

"Coming to Kearney, meeting new people and making new friends have made an impact on me because the people are always around and are there to help you out."

DAVE CHURCHILL
Senior
NHS president

"The reinstatement of the draft. I feel I'm sort of young to go off and fight. If anything happens I won't have a chance to finish school. It's put all the responsibility on all the young men of the nation which is wrong. The reinstatement of the draft will have a great impact on the future. Although nothing has happened yet, there is buildup going on like increasing military aid to El Salvador. No one knows what is going to happen."

ANNA CONNAUGHTON
Sophomore

"The biggest impact on me was coming to Kearney — it was such a change. I found a lot of people who are supportive and am learning a lot. Also I went to the Epcot Center and it really shocked me to see how advanced everything is getting in the world. The world is moving along at a fast pace."

MIKE MULL
Junior
baseball

"The Space Shuttle. It is a step toward better exploration of outer space and another step toward better technology and toward people traveling in space all the time."

GINA HURNY
Senior
PAX group

"I think the advancement of computer technology. It has made a lot of jobs a lot easier. It is endless what computers can do. They are definitely going to be a big part of society."

VICTOR SERIO
Sophomore
hockey

"The event that made the most impact on me was when the hostages were released in Iran. You really felt happy for them and their families because they had lived through all of that."

JENNIFER KANE
Freshman
Coronet staff

"The happiest event was the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana. I thought it was nice to see two people in the public eye be so happy, which is unusual in this day. Their happiness and charm have given people a new look at marriage. It makes people think seriously of trying to make their own marriages work out."

JOHN RISOLO
football

"My family. With everything I do, like in sports, my father will show me how to do it. There's family support. And today you see so many divorces and kids don't have this closeness with their families."

Winner's Circle

RapAround weekly will run a photo of a group of students taken somewhere in the diocese. One person will be circled and if that person brings the clipping to the school office before noon of the Tuesday following our publication date, he or she will receive $5. This week's photo was taken at Notre Dame during an assembly. The person circled should bring the clipping to the school office to be mailed to Joan M. Smith, Courier-Journal, 114 South Union St., by noon, Tuesday, April 19, to receive $5.

Volunteering: A Maturing Time

By Joan M. Smith

Recently, Dan Cardinale, a McQuaid volunteer, said that being good in athletics is a talent that can be used in helping others. And that is exactly what Tricia Zava, Nazareth Academy junior, does. Through the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) she coaches the St. Theodore's girls basketball team.

It's Tricia's first year coaching the sixth, seventh, and eighth graders and make up the team. She attributes her desire to help them to her father's coaching involvement. Tricia delights in working with the girls but admitted the time commitment can be tough.

Besides her own basketball practices and games with the Nazareth team, there were the 6:30 p.m. practices with St. Theodore's every Tuesday and Thursday plus their games on Saturday. But the fact that St. Theodore's had a 7-3 season and came in third place in the western division tournament made Tricia's time commitment worthwhile. According to Tricia, all the pressures are forgotten "when you see them score the way you taught them." Now that the season is over, "I'm starting to get my spare time back," she said.

Her coaching techniques include sharing her own play experiences. "Mr. Hendrick (Nazareth coach) will show us something in practice and then I go back and show the team," she explained.

Coaching has also kept Tricia on her toes because she knows her players are watching her. There are times, she explained, when she will tell her players to run five laps and then at her own practices when she is told to do ten laps she makes sure she doesn't slack off at six. "I wonder what they (her players) would think if I didn't do what my coach told me to do."

The most difficult task she had as coach was making the final cut to the 15 girls who would be the team. Tricia, however, handled the problem philosophically, telling the girls who were cut, "not to be discouraged — make it a goal to try out next year and make it."

Besides playing and coaching basketball, Tricia plays summer soccer for the Gates Travel Team. She spectates sports both as a spectator (her favorite NBA team is the Philadelphia 76ers) and as participant. Sports, she said, "gives you that feeling of working together for a common goal — to win."

And what about volunteer community service? "Students should look into it and do it," she said and added, "Even if it's an hour a week, it helps you improve yourself and it feels good when you see someone do something and you've had a hand in it."

Senatorial Honors Go to McQuaid Jr.

Daniel J. Cardinali, a junior at McQuaid High School, has been named by U.S. Senator Alfonse D'Amato (R-C-NY) as a scholarship recipient in the 1983 Japan/U.S. Senate Scholarship Program. He will spend two months this summer with a family in Japan.

"Daniel has distinguished himself as one of New York's most outstanding students," said Sen. D'Amato in making the announcement. "I am sure that he will not only represent New York and America well during his stay in Japan, but that he will be able to contribute much of what is learned in Japan to his school and community."

The scholarship includes a trip to Washington, D.C., where the winners will meet with their senator and be honored at a reception at the Japanese Embassy. They will also attend an orientation at Stanford University on Japanese language and culture.

The Japan/U.S. Senate Scholarship Program is an intercultural exchange funded by the government of Japan and administered by Youth for Understanding, a non-profit international student exchange organization. Under the program, each U.S. senator is allowed to name an outstanding high school junior from his or her state to participate in the scholarship program.

This year's program began last Fall when high schools in New York State were invited to submit nominations. The top 12 students in the state were then interviewed by the New York State selection committee, composed of representatives of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Council for Social Studies and Youth for Understanding, and an appointee from each of New York's senators. The committee then recommended the two winners to the senators.

A Jazzy Time

The Aquinas Jazz Band will perform at the RIT City Center, Main and Fitzhugh streets, from noon to 1 p.m., Friday, April 15. It will also perform for the student body on Thursday, April 21.

BK Band Preludes Trip

The Bishop Kearney Marching Kings Field and Concert Bands, along with the Jazz Ensemble, will perform a Spring Send-off Concert at 8 p.m., Saturday, April 23, in the BK auditorium. Arthur Rietman, band director, announced that the program would include such musical renditions as "Emerald Eyes" and "Gospel John" by the Jazz Ensemble, selections from "West Side Story" and "The Russian Sailor's Dance" by the Concert Band, and "Slaughter on 10th Avenue" and "Children of Sanchez" performed by the Marching Band, twirling and color guard units.

The concert is free and will be a preview of the Kings' up-coming participation in the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Va., April 28-30 where they will compete against top high school bands from throughout the nation.

The Kings will also be featured at opening day ceremonies at Red Wing Stadium, Wednesday, April 20.
