

Pope Lauds Haitian Bishops on Rights Stand

By Nancy Frazier
 Vatican City (NC) — Pope John Paul II praised the bishops of Haiti for their human rights initiatives and said he hoped the efforts would lead to greater respect for human dignity in the Caribbean country.

The pope, who spent half a day in Haiti March 9, met the bishops at the Vatican June 11.

He praised statements published by the Haitian Bishops' Conference on the Church's role in social and political affairs and on human promotion.

"In this way you wish to help all the Haitian people to respect the dignity of each one of their compatriots, to develop justice, true relations, participation, reconciliation, without a spirit of condemnation of anyone, but appealing to the sense of responsibility and to the professional conscience of all, rich and poor," he said.

"I encourage you in this route and I am sure that such an attitude, if lived concretely, passing from words to deeds, with concern for unity and peace, will be a great progress for the entire Haitian nation," the pope added.

In February, the bishops issued a statement criticizing the government for what it called a pattern of human rights violations. It cited the case of a Catholic layman who was dragged away from a meeting and illegally detained for several weeks.

Pope John Paul, during his stop in Haiti, rebuked the regime of President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier, criticizing "divisions, injustices, excessive inequality, the degradation of the quality of life, misery, hunger." The pope added that the regime had produced a climate of fear.

In his talk to the bishops June 11, the pope also called on the nation's predominantly black population to "overcome the plague of superstition and ambiguous or magic cults or those not completely rid of the fatalism of historic elements from which Christ liberated his disciples."

According to Vatican figures, 90 percent of the population of Haiti is Catholic. Church sources in Haiti, however, say that voodoo, based on African animist beliefs, is the most popular religion.
