

School, Parents A 2-Way Street

From Rochester Federation of Catholic School Parents
The partnership of parents and schools in the educational process is a theme much written about, almost to the point of becoming a cliché. It is a documented fact that parental involvement with the school is the single most positive influence on a child's success in school. The Rochester Federation of Catholic School Parents offers this brief outline of that partnership:

What Catholic school parents can expect from the school:

1. A Catholic education through religion classes each day, regular prayer, liturgies, reception of the sacraments, and the fostering of an atmosphere of Christian acceptance of the child's strengths and weaknesses.
2. A general education in the academic subjects which challenges your child to perform and learn to the best of his

3. Regular and frequent progress reports, both written and in individual conferences, which assess your child's performance and ability regularly.
4. Written notification of changes in regulations and policies.
5. Responsiveness to your concerns and questions and respect for your opinions.

What the school can expect from you:

1. A commitment to live out your own faith and to help your child to develop his/hers through your example.
2. Knowledge and support of the policies and regulations of the school.
3. Responsiveness to the school's requests for appointments and respect for its opinions and observations.

Holy Rosary School Awaits Moving Day

The people of Holy Rosary are setting their sights on Easter, 1984, as the target date for moving into their new school. Ground has been broken, construction has begun and each day brings them closer to their moving day.

The size of the school will enable the staff to provide programs which have had to be at a minimum since the fire. The library was totally destroyed and each month finds a greater number of books catalogued for use. A multi-purpose room will be used for remedial and enrichment programs including a new computer program where both students and teachers will learn the fine points of computer technology. The plans provide for a parish hall, giving the students an area for assemblies, plays, gym program and lunch program.
