

Voices of Peace

Agnes Marini, Corpus Christi, Rochester — 'I am here to support the stance we all have against nuclear arms.'

Ann Mellett, Rochester — '(Because) I saw Dachau and was overwhelmed by the power of that evil, that some of my relatives still feel guilty.'

Sharon Ferrari — 'I was moved by the bishop's speech. We are all here because we are against nuclear armaments.'

Both the famous and those less so spoke at the peace rally at Sampson State Park. In addition a number of dioceses voiced their opinions. At the top, Michio Kaku, a nuclear physicist and CUNY professor gave an impassioned plea, "Freeze and Reverse the Arms Race." Bella Abzug, the chairperson of Women U.S.A., and former U.S. Representative, encouraged, "Stop the Cruise and Pershing Missiles." Above, Bill Benet, Monroe County legislator and head of the Center for Democratic Values, handed out American flags and encouraged the crowd to "take back the flag." Center, Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and author, issued the "Call to Civil Disobedience, Oct. 24."

Father David Mura, standing at left, works with the James Cicero family making buttons at the rally site.

Linda Amoia, St. Mary's, Auburn — 'I'm here because I'm against the arms race, and because I support Bishop Clark.'

Th

Chalmer St. Patrick — 'I believe in abolishing weapons of nuclear thought address was m tears.'