

Long Kesh Violence

By Sister Mary Ann Walsh

Rome (NC) -- Prison conditions in Long Kesh, the Northern Irish prison housing members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, have worsened since a prison break in September, according to Cardinal Tomas O'Fiaich of Armagh, Northern Ireland.

"One man had to get the last sacraments," said Cardinal O'Fiaich, because of abuses by prison guards. "Another had two teeth knocked out. And no one is being allowed in who will give a fair account of the prison inside."

He indicated that the violence is an apparent reaction to the prison escape by several members of the Irish Republican Army, which embarrassed Long Kesh prison officials and lifted the spirits of the IRA.

The prison break took place Sept. 25, when 38 IRA prisoners escaped, killing one guard and wounding several others. The IRA is opposed to British rule in Northern Ireland.

Worse -- Cardinal

Confronted with such violence, "the only lasting hope for peace is for the British to get out of Ireland," Cardinal O'Fiaich said in Rome in an interview with NC News Service.

Cardinal O'Fiaich criticized the IRA, Protestant paramilitary groups, the Royal Ulster Constabulary and the British army for their use of violence in Northern Ireland.

Their violence, he said, "has created a deeper chasm between Catholics and Protestants than there was in 1969, when violence broke out between the two groups in Belfast and British troops came in."

Britain's continued presence, said Cardinal O'Fiaich, makes the situation worse.

"Britain likes to give the image that Catholics and Protestants will kill each other if Britain is not there to keep them apart," he said.

However, he said, "there is plenty of cooperation between Catholics and Protestants."

Gaelic Music Scheduled

An evening of Irish and Scottish music featuring Cromdale of Toronto has been scheduled for 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 5, at the Mercy High School Auditorium.

Cromdale, a multi-instrumental band, is popular throughout eastern Canada. The band's repertoire includes ancient Irish battle music, legends of the past and courting songs.

Tickets are available at Phelps Glass Studios, 4077 West Henrietta Road, 1500 W. Ridge Road and Panorama Plaza; McGinnity's Restaurant, 534 W. Ridge Road; by writing 1349 Rush-Henrietta Town Line Road, Rush, N.Y. 14543, or by telephoning (716) 359-2269.

Deadline

Items intended for publication in At Your Parish must be written and at the Courier-Journal offices, 114 South Union St., Rochester, N.Y. 14607, before noon of Thursday preceding Wednesday publication.
