We encourage parishes and groups throughout the Diocese who are sponsoring activities on the Bishops' pastoral to send information to M. Lourdes Perez-Albuerna, 750 W. Main St., Rochester, N.Y. 14611, so that it can be included in the calendar.

Radio Will Push For Young Health

WHAM Radio 1180 will ask its listeners to "help Strong kids to health by giving a gift to last a child's lifetime" during a two-week WHAM-Strong Children's Fund Radiothon, beginning with broadcasts from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Marketplace Mall Saturday, Dec. 10, and Sunday, Dec. 18 at McCurdy's Midtown Plaza store.

A holiday tree lighting ceremony will be at Strong Memorial Hospital on Friday, Dec. 9 and will be followed by the Perinatal Center's annual holiday party for its former and continuing-care patients.

The Strong's Children's Fund was established in 1979 to provide support for medical services for children in the region. For further information contact the Fund Office, 275-8261.

The service will consist of prayers, readings, hymns and an appropriate homily. The First Baptist choir will provide the music.

Gates-Chili T-giving Service Set

The annual Thanksgiving service sponsored by O.N.E. (Our Neighborhood Ecumenical) Council of Gates-Chili will take place at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 23 (tonight) at the First Baptist Church, 3182 Chili Ave., at Paul Road.

Small loaves of bread will be distributed to each family present. Funds collected at the service will be given to a local agency helping the poor and hungry.

All are welcome.

Rock Show Scheduled

The Ontario County Deputy Sheriff's Association is sponsoring a rock and roll show featuring The Drifters and Danny and the Juniors at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 29, at Community College of the Finger Lakes, Canandaigua.

Nestle 'Committed' To Code -- Muskie

Cleveland (NC) -- The Nestle Infant Formula Audit Commission is independent of Nestle S.A., despite the fact it is funded by Nestle, said the commission's chairman, former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie.

Muskie, addressing UNDA-USA, the National Catholic Association for Broadcasters and Allied Communicators, tried to dispel doubts that the company-initiated commission exists to "whitewash" Nestle's marketing practices. He spoke at the UNDA convention in Cleveland Nov. 11, four days before he was hospitalized in Maine with chest pains.

Muskie said independence was necessary to attract people to serve on the Nestle commission or its credibility would be questioned.

"In May 1982, I personally negotiated with Nestle a contract that the commission would be completely independent of Nestle," he said.

Muskie said the 10-member commission includes three clergymen, two of whom are from denominations sponsoring boycotts of Nestle products and services. Several years ago, the third clergyman founded a task force challenging Nestle's marketing practices.

The commission investigates complaints that Nestle used marketing practices designed to tempt mothers of newborns to use Nestle formula rather than breastfeed their infants. Critics said Nestle did not follow the World Health Organization code for marketing, promoting and advertising the formula.

The WHO code attempts to prevent "promotion of infant formula products at the point of sale; use of employees dressed as nurses, promoting the products; introductory offers of reduced prices for formulas; and distribution of free samples."

Muskie said what is controversial is that mothers in developing countries buy the formula, dilute it because they cannot afford as much as their infants need and mix it with unsanitary water.

He said Nestle has issued instructions to its salespersons to follow the code, but noted enforcement is left to the governments of countries where the formula is sold.

"We believe Nestle is committed," Muskie said. "I have no reason to doubt that, in the year and a half of the commission's existence. The company has a willingness to adjust to the code. That's not to say they've done everything possible."

He said Nestle sells its formula in 100 countries. Nestle has sales of $15 billion a year, but not more than 3 percent of that is from infant formula.

The Nestle budget for the formula commission is $400,000. Muskie receives $100 an hour to act as chairman of the commission.

Onion Rings, Corn -- She's Eating Well

A letter from college: Dear Mom, Dad and Kids,

I can hardly wait to get home. (Never thought you'd hear me say that, did you?) It's been three months, my longest time away, and it'll be good to see everybody at Thanksgiving. I want to visit with all my friends so don't be upset if I don't spend a lot of time at home. Okay?

Organic chem is still scary. I do great in the lab but tests are something else. No, in answer to your last letter, I don't think they ever caught the poisonous mice that escaped from the research lab. It's right next to where my class is. They've warned everybody though.

You worry too much, Mom. I promised I would not crawl out of the skylight onto the fifth floor rim like the other girls so I don't know why you get so hysterical.

Guess what? I found this great dress in a second-hand shop. Everybody buys clothes there. (How I've changed, ha ha.) Sara found a great outfit. Makes her look like a refugee from a harem. If she weren't almost six feet, I'd borrow it. Everybody stares at her on campus ever since she dyed her blonde hair jet black. We call her Snow White. When I got back from Aunt Thom's, Sara asked (hopefully) if I'd had a "sinful weekend." Don't worry. I don't have time to do anything wrong even if I wanted to.

Yin, one of the girls in the suite next to ours, and I went to Ashley's at midnight last night for ice cream. That's our big outing.

Oh, yeah, Arthur Miller spoke here yesterday. The place was jammed. They had to move the site because so many kids wanted to hear him. He was really good. Sorta old but with it. He's the one you said was married to Marilyn Monroe, right?

Guess what? I won for doing my laundry the least of anybody in both suites. I also got rookie of the year in soccer. They gave me a pewter mug which shows all the fingerprints. We tried to go to Morey's after the banquet but you have to be 20 to get in a bar and they wouldn't let most of the team in.

Don't send any more food. I don't want to get fat. I brought out the Butterfingers you sent and the girls inhaled them. Now they're getting ready to send out for pizza.

Bring any old furniture you can when you come. Our living room is bare (and dusty).

Can't wait to see you. Can we go out to supper? I'm still eating vegetarian. I think I could become one if it weren't for hamburgers. It's supposed to be healthy. Last night I had onion rings and corn. See you soon. Much love. J.

Washington Senate Nov. 15-16, 1983, tabled credit amendment. Sen. Robert Stafford, Nov. 16 offered credits as an H.R. 290, the bill.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker had tried to get tax credits as to H.J. Res. 100. Opponents were against the "cease" to attach that bill.
