

Mother Angelica looks over plans for her new television complex.

Mother Angelica Is Building New Broadcast Studio

Birmingham, Ala. — Mother Angelica, the cloistered Franciscan nun who founded Eternal Word Television Network here in 1981, is building a new studio facility, thus expanding the network's studio space five-fold.

Recent statistics, published in "Broadcasting" magazine, reveal EWTN as the leader in cable growth among the top 25 basic services, showing a 47.4 percent increase in subscribers from December 1983 to May 1984. The network was also first in subscriber growth among religious networks for the preceding year.

The network's programs are available on cable in various areas of the Diocese of Rochester, but not, at this writing, in the see city.

The new space will enable the network to expand its programming possibilities and productions. In addition the complex will house office space, a conference room and workshop areas.

One of the network's most popular programs is "Mother Angelica Live" which offers viewer participation. Viewers may call in questions for Mother Angelica and her guests through a toll-free number.

Among recent guests on the program have been Archbishop Bernard Law of Boston, author Father John Powell, SJ, entertainer Pat Boone and Watergate figure Charles Colson.

Alabama Parish Fetes Rochester SSJ Sister

Selma, Ala. — The members of Queen of Peace Parish here joined in paying tribute to Sister Albertine Devereaux, long time parish secretary and bookkeeper.

Sister Albertine, a native of Winstead, Conn., graduated from Nazareth College in Rochester. She joined the Sisters of St. Joseph in 1929 and served as a teacher and as a nurse in the Rochester area for 47 years before joining the Edmundite Southern Missions.

Members of Queen of Peace expressed their appreciation for the Sister's many years of service, and their grief over her retirement, in a "roast" held at the annual parish picnic. They paid "Sister Albie" tribute in songs, stories, speeches and an original poem.

Dominican Sister Pat Sullivan, director of religious education, presented Sister Albertine with a farewell gift from the parish, and Ed Heuker, parish council president, presented her with a plaque honoring her achievements in Selma.

Edmundite Father Charles McNeice gave a speech relating her many services to the parish. "She was the person who was always there and who always cared," he said. "Our parish will not be the same without her."

Mrs. Pearl V. Todd, the parish poet, read some original verses praising Sister's love and concern for all members of the parish.

In response, Sister Albertine thanked everyone for the kindness they had shown her. "If I could stay here in Selma forever, I would," she said. "If I do leave, my heart will stay behind."

The Rochester Sisters of St. Joseph have been working in Selma since 1940 when they joined the Fathers of St. Edmund in responding to Pope Pius XI's appeal for American religious orders to Sister Albertine is congratulated by Father McNeice, pastor, on her last day in the office of Queen of Peace.

Canada Preps for Papal Visit

Toronto — Pope John Paul II's meeting with Polish-Canadians during his visit to this archdiocese has been transferred from Varsity Stadium to Exhibition Stadium. Scheduled for the evening of Sept. 14, the event is expected to attract more than 50,000 people.

"We are very pleased," said Father Richard Kosian of Ottawa, rally co-chairman. "The pope wanted to meet the Polish community and in a larger place all those Polish-Canadians interested in seeing him will have a better opportunity."

In another development concerning the pope's visit to Canada, Canadian religious leaders have been asked to nominate those who will be invited to the ecumenical service with Pope John Paul II at St. Paul's Anglican Church here. The service on Sept. 14 will be by invitation only. Just more than 2,000 seats are available in St. Paul's and places will be allocated among 37 different churches and faiths in Canada. The number invited from each will reflect the proportionate size of that group on the Canadian religious scene.

"The religious leaders of the Canadian churches and the pope will officiate together at this prayer service," said Father Brian Clough, chairman.

Following the service, Pope John Paul will meet informally and privately for 75 minutes with heads of member churches of the Canadian council of churches in Cody Hall, adjacent to St. Paul's.

Following is the schedule of the pope's tour of Canada. All times are local. Eastern Daylight Times are in parentheses except where they correspond to the local time.
