

Rome Has Mystery in Tour of Scenic Italy

Pope John Paul II has a mysterious side. He has a sense of humor that is not often seen in public. And he is a man who is very much a man of the people.

The pope's visit to Italy was a tour of scenic Italy. He visited the Vatican Museums, the Sistine Chapel, and St. Peter's Basilica. He also visited the Colosseum and the Forum of Trajan.

Each individual seems to bring home his or her own special remembrance, he says. It may not even be people or spectacular events or places. For many, the people they meet would just about everywhere have a special place in their hearts. It might be a particular restaurant or a street scene.

Special Celebrations Honor Blessed Kateri

Fleming and Scipio Center — The dual parish of St. Isaac Jogues and St. Bernard celebrated the life of Blessed Kateri Tekakwitha recently. On Sunday, July 15, processions of small children, some dressed in Indian clothing, were held in each church at the morning Masses.

Taking the role of Kateri was Mary Borza, who wore burlap and an Indian head-band, and carried a cross made of tree limbs. St. Isaac Jogues, the Jesuit martyr, was played by Donald Delaney, who wore a cassock. The two spoke of their representations in each church.

Following the Masses, prayer cards for the canonization of Blessed Kateri were handed out. Father Paul Cloonan, pastor, also spoke on the life of Kateri.

The special program was under the direction of Mrs. Jack Walsh of Fleming.

2 New Dioceses Formed in Florida

Washington (NC) -- Pope John Paul II established two new dioceses in Florida July 17 -- Palm Beach and of Venice -- and named auxiliary bishops from Miami and Boston to head them.

Auxiliary Bishop Thomas V. Daily, 56, of Boston was named the first bishop of Palm Beach, which was formed from 4,515 square miles taken from the existing Archdiocese of Miami and the Orlando diocese.

Orlando Diocese.

The new Venice diocese has a Catholic population of 115,359. It is made up of 10 counties: Collier, Glades and Hendry, formerly in the Miami Archdiocese; Highlands, formerly in the Orlando Diocese, and Charlotte, De Soto, Hardee, Lee, Manatee and Sarasota, formerly in the St. Petersburg Diocese.

The Miami archdiocese, which before the split had 925,700 Catholics, now has a Catholic population of 740,560.
