The Spirit of Christmases past

'T was the night before Christmas,
when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring,
not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung
by the chimney with care, In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled
all snug in their beds, While visions of sugarplums
danced in their heads;
And Mamma in her kerchief,
and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains
for a long winter's nap;
When out on the lawn
there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the bed
to see what was the matter.

Away to the window
I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters
and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast
of the new-fallen snow,
Gave the luster of midday
to objects below.
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh,
and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver,
so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment
it must be St. Nick.

More rapid than eagles
his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted,
and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer!
Now, Prancer! and Vixen!
On Comet! On Cupid!
On, Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch!
To the top of the wall!
Now dash away! Dash away!
Dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before
the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle,
mount to the sky;
So up to the housetop
the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys,
and St. Nicholas too.
And then in a twinkling,
I heard on the roof,

Travel back with us — through the pages of the Catholic Journal, predecessor of the Courier-Journal — to the early days of our diocese, during the tenure of our first bishop, Bernard McQuaid. Many of the news items and etchings within these pages are taken from the Journal (circa 1890), thanks to the wonder of microfilm.

On our journey through time, we will take a look at GeVa's adaptation of the Victorian classic "A Christmas Carol" and at some of Rochester's early Christmases. Also in this "number" are a reflection on the Christ Child's love for the disadvantaged, a scientific explanation of the Star of Christmas and a look at the origins of Christian holidays.

Back in the present, we also offer a survey of noteworthy local Christmas celebrations and the messages of Pope John Paul II and Bishop Matthew H. Clark for World Day of Peace.

The C-J staff of 1985 wishes you a joyful Christmas. We'll see you again on January 9.

The prancing and pawing of each little hoof —

As I drew in my head,
and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur,
from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot.
A bundle of toys
he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler
just opening his pack.
His eyes — how they twinkled!
His dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses,
his nose like a cherry!

His droll little mouth
was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin
was a white as the snow:
The stump of his pipe
he held in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled
his head like a wreath;
He had a broad face
and a little round belly, That shook when he laughed,
like a bowlful of jelly.
He was chubby and plump,
a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him,
in spite of myself.

A wink of his eye
and a twist of his head, Soon gave me to know
I had nothing to dread:
He spoke not a word,
but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings;
then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger
aside of his nose,
And giving a nod,
up the chimney he rose:
He sprang to his sleigh,
to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim,
ere he drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all,
And to all a good night."
