

Local celebrations planned for Martin Luther King Day

As the first national observance of Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday approaches (January 20), diocesan officials are urging a wider celebration of the holiday by schools and parishes outside the black community. Toward that end, the Office of Liturgy and the Division of Urban Services are sending each parish liturgical suggestions for the weekend of January 18 and 19 and information on events planned for the holiday.

Immaculate Conception, Rochester, and St. Bridget's parishes are two places that need no urging. St. Bridget's tradition of celebrating Martin Luther King's birthday on a grand scale will continue this year. A memorial service and gospel music tribute on Sunday, Jan. 12, will feature — at last count — 10 gospel choirs, including those from Immaculate Conception and St. Bridget's parishes. Greer Gordon, the assistant director of adult education and formation for the Archdiocese of Washington, D.C., will also speak on the historic movement started by Dr. King and its theological involvements. The celebration begins at 4 p.m. and admission is free. For information, call (716)454-4236.

Immaculate Conception Parish will kick off its annual observance of Black History Month with a celebration of Martin Luther King's birthday at the 11 a.m. Mass, Sunday, Jan. 19. The theme for the Mass will be "Hush, Somebody's Calling My Name," with music by the Immaculate Conception choir. City Councilwoman Maxine Childress-Brown will be the homilist, and the storyteller will be Robert Dinkle.

Special Sunday liturgies will continue at Immaculate Conception throughout the following month. On Sunday, Jan. 26, the theme will be "Black Church" with the Rev. Andrew Gibson as homilist, Robert Dinkle as storyteller and music by the A.M.F. Zion Church choir.

Dr. King was born January 15, 1929, in Atlanta, Ga. His leadership of the civil rights movement during the 1960s was recognized when he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964. On November 2, 1983, a bill was finally signed into law establishing the third Monday in January as a federal holiday honoring King's birthday. The bill had been introduced in every Congressional session since King's assassination in 1968.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Greater Rochester Commission has compiled a schedule of events in the Monroe County area in an effort to make the first national observance of the holiday a significant one. Some of the highlights include:

Interfaith Celebration: "Dr. King and the Children," Dr. J. Larry Brown, Harvard University; Sunday, Jan. 12, 7:30 p.m.; First Baptist Church of Rochester, 175 Allens Creek Road.

Theatre: "I Have a Dream," National Black Touring Circuit of New York City; Thurs.-Fri., Jan. 16, 17, 8 p.m.; Nazareth College Arts Center; $12; call (716)586-2525.

Drama/Dance: the Black Seeds; Sunday, Jan. 19, 3 p.m.; Penfield Public Library; free for families; call to register, (716)377-8650.

All-City Worship: interfaith, interracial gathering; Dr. Robert W. Franklin; Monday, Jan. 20, 10 a.m.; Central Church of Christ.

Service: "The Life and Ministry of Dr. King," Dr. Robert Franklin Jr., dean of Colgate Rochester Divinity School; Sunday, Jan. 26, 10:30 a.m.; Univ. of Rochester Interfaith Chapel.

Lecture: "The Dream is Still a Dream," Yolanda King (Dr. King's daughter); Wednesday, Jan. 29, 8 p.m.; Monroe Community College Theater; limited tickets, $1 each.

The Lord's Dream for His Children

A Litany of Forgiveness

Expressed by Dr. Martin Luther King
 Lord, you have blessed us with freedom, but we have misused your gift by indulging in selfish pleasures.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord you have desired freedom for all your children, but we have not always honored the freedom of others.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord, you have endowed our country with great diversity, but we have not always respected nor appreciated the wealth of our variety.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord, you guided our founding fathers and mothers toward equality for all men and women, but we have excluded some of your children because of race, sex, nationality or creed.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord, you blessed our nation with national resources to take care of our needs, but we have abused our resources and foolishly squandered them.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord, you desire justice and peace for all people, but we have chosen war and riots, violence and crime.

Response: Have mercy on me, O God, have mercy.

Lord, God, you are the hope of the sinner. Your mercy is without limit. Look with kindness and compassion on us in our sinfulness. You have blessed our land with freedom, justice and peace. Forgive us for our misuse of your gifts and our failure to promote them for all your daughters and sons.

Teach us to work together in love and harmony. Fill us with a strong and unselfish love that we may work for the welfare of all peoples and bring the work of justice to perfection.

We ask this in the name of Jesus the Lord.

Amen.

THOUGHTS TO CONSIDER

EDWIN SULEWSKI FUNERAL DIRECTOR

How can I best prepare my family for my eventual death?

Plan ahead! Make a will, get adequate insurance coverage and pre-plan your funeral. No one really likes to do these things but they are important. A family left without plans can only guess your wishes. We urge you to talk with members of your family so that everyone knows your wishes ahead of time. They may not like your plans and you might not like theirs. By discussing your plans early, you have a good chance to assure that all of you will be satisfied. After discussing these matters with your family, contact us about planning your funeral. We will help you and your family to assure that your wishes are carried forth.

We purchase all forms of insurance to protect our family & assets, not because we expect the worst to happen but to be prepared. Doesn't it make sense then to prepare for what will happen? Let our trained counselors assist you with the many options available in planning for a worry-free future.
