After 48 years at Nazareth Academy, during which time she taught every business subject in the curriculum, Sister Ruth Magin retired June 30.

"Sister Ruth has prepared literally thousands of women who have been successful in business and careers," said Sister Elaine

Englert, Nazareth's principal and a former student of Sister Ruth's. "She was totally involved with students, from taking us on picnics to coming to all our dances, to walking with us to the lake. She has always given without counting the cost."

Sister Ruth, who was known as Sister John Mary before 1972, began teaching business students in 1938.

For the past 25 years, Sister Ruth has organized the annual Business Careers Day at the academy, inviting successful graduates to share their stories with the school's business students. "You can't go into many businesses in Rochester without meeting a Nazareth graduate," Sister Ruth is fond of saying.

Most recently, Sister Ruth has headed the school's shorthand laboratory. Sister Elaine believes a saying on the laboratory bulletin board — "Life is a giving . . . the greater the love, the greater the giving" — exemplifies Sister Ruth's life.

A former academic administrator at St. John Fisher College, Joseph A.F. Valenti, has joined the firm of Mousaw, Vigdor, Reeves, Heilbronner & Kroll as counsel.

A Fairport resident, Valenti has served as president of the New York State Civil Service commission and in a variety of other state posts.

For the 32nd consecutive year, area high school graduates have been awarded $1,000 scholarships by the Rochester Polish Peoples' Home and the Michael Stanley Broki Foundation.

This year's recipients are John L. Kowalewski, Greece-Athena High School; John E. Zdanowski, Greece-Olympia High School; and Julie M. Sikorski, Cardinal Mooney High School.

Kowalewski will study journalism at the University of Maryland. Zdanowski plans to major in engineering at Clarkson University. Sikorski plans to attend Cornell University to study pre-law.
