Cardinal Mooney Follies commemorates 10th anniversary

By Yvonne Stout
Cardinal Mooney High School

This year marks the 10th year anniversary of the Cardinal Mooney Follies. Every year, friends and alumni gather to produce a show to benefit the Greece high school. Money is donated with the aim of keeping the tuition steady and bettering the school overall.

This year's show is entitled "Memories." The production is a collection of the best of the Follies' past performances, and as Ginny Probst says, "It's a fitting way to go."

There are four segments to the performance this year. Segments include Vaudeville, movies, a collage of the '80s and Broadway, as well as such popular songs as the theme from "Oklahoma," music from "Cats," "Hurray for Hollywood," and "When You Wish Upon A Star," from the Walt Disney classic "Peter Pan"

For those in the audience who have attended shows in the past, there will be a surprise in the "Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend" segment.

Of the 40 performers this year, eight either have been in the production or in the stage crew for all 10 years.

Bernie Derleth is directing and doing the choreography for the show, with help from Brother Edward Zdrowski and Pianist Jack Fiannaca.

A lot of work and talent has gone into this show, and with these people in charge, the effort promises to have rewarding results.

In addition to regular performances, there will be a show for senior citizens and a gala benefit night. The senior citizen show is Thursday, November 13, at 8 p.m. Tickets will be sold at a reduced price.

The benefit night looks like it's going to be a success for a second consecutive year. The show on November 20 will benefit the School of the Holy Childhood, in memory of Father George Wood, who was a loyal benefactor of the school. Last year, Cardinal Mooney donated $2,500 to the School of the Holy Childhood as a result of the Follies. Tickets for this year's benefit are $10, which includes a wine and cheese reception after the performance.

Productions are scheduled for November 14 through November 16, and November 20 through November 22. Please plan on attending a very special celebration to help benefit Cardinal Mooney High School.

The following people have been involved with the Follies in some way or another for all 10 years of its existence: Norma Phelan, Jack Fiannaca, Ginny Probst, Rita and Bob Studley, Carol Anarella, Jean Maher, Pricilla Papagni, Roxanne Duemmei, Dorothy Keenan, Leon T. Pearson, Louise Hoak, Jerry Brien, Bernie Derleth, Dick Dailey, and Marg Mahoney.

Speaking Out

By Elizabeth Berliner
Notre Dame High School

Now is when it all begins: the end-of-the-year depression. The first report cards have gone home, bringing the realization that there are approximately seven months before summer vacation and just three more report cards to go. Thirty-degree mornings feel more like life in the Arctic Circle, and it seems as if turning the clock back an hour last month only resulted in making students step off the afternoon bus in near darkness. Commitments have become overwhelming, while feelings of anxiety and frustration run rampant in the school hallways.

Amid all of the turmoil, it is vital to try and retain some small speck of sanity. Perhaps a few ideas on how this can be accomplished are in order.

- Set aside an hour to watch your favorite TV show, regardless of your schedule.
- Grab a younger sibling — or any neighborhood kid — and take him or her to see the latest Disney movie. You just may enjoy yourself.

- Write a long-distance friend you've neglected lately or better yet, give him or her a call.
- Buy an old recording by your favorite band, and see how far they've come.
- If you're 17, give blood. If not, volunteer to work at a local blood drive. Saving someone's life is a great feeling.
- Clean out your "junk drawer" (We all have one!). You'll be surprised at some of the memories you will find.
- Bundle up in your winter coat and favorite mittens and take a dog — anyone's dog — for a walk.
- Buy your mom a rose. Things always seem to run smoother when Mom's happy.

Above all, remember that things will get better and, before you know it, the school year will be over and you'll be left wondering, "Where did it all go?"

Equal Time

Nazareth Academy
How do you feel about the recent court ruling restricting the use of certain literary works in English classes?

GRACE TILLINGHAST, Senior
Literature is literature, and I have to say that if these people don't want their children reading Shakespeare or The Diary of Anne Frank, they shouldn't let them read the Bible. After all, the Bible exposes them to homosexuality, fratricide, slavery, incest and violence. I think that it's hypocritical for fundamentalists to allow these subjects to be read in a "holy" book, but consider these same themes taboo in other works. I fail to see the logic in that.

CHRIS HORTON, Senior
I feel the fundamentalists are not justified in their actions against certain literary works because I feel people should have the right to read whatever they want. The author does not mean for you to believe everything you read; it (a book) is written to entertain. We all have different beliefs and religions and, because of this, some things may seem offensive while actually they are only another person's beliefs and opinions.

PAULETTE CHATMAN, Senior
Literature is literature, and what the fundamentalists believe attacks much of English literature. Without these great works, English would just be grammar and written composition. These fundamentalist parents are denying their children the right to a balanced education, therefore limiting their scope before they have begun to explore the world.

PATTY MARCAIDA, Senior
I think the verdict against certain literary works is unfair. Although these families have the right to exercise their religion, the children also have the right to read the books they would like to read. I think that the parents' interpretation of the books is far-fetched. Although some books mention witchcraft and magic, it does not mean that the author condones these beliefs. As for the toleration of religions in Anne Frank's diary, isn't that what America was founded on?

Geneva natives named assistants to Nazareth lacrosse squad

A pair of Geneva natives have been named assistants to Nazareth College head lacrosse coach Scott Nelson.

Bill Kerr, who played collegiate lacrosse at Hobart College, and Chris Bruno, who played at Cobleskill and Syracuse University, have been added to the staff. The two lacrosse standouts replace Marc Van Arsdale and Art DeCarlo, who both left their assistant coaching duties to pursue graduate degrees.

Kerr, 22, was a midfielder at Hobart, where he played on four NCAA Division III championship teams.

Bruno, 23, was an all-region defenseman at Cobleskill, before moving on to the Orangemen, where he played on two NCAA runners-up.
