At their annual Lincoln Day Dinner, the Bishop James E. Kearney Assembly Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus presented a donation to Lou Emann (far left), business manager of the School of the Holy Childhood, and a chalice to deacon-intern John Hayes (second from right). Also shown are Ann Hayes, the deacon's mother, and Father John Gagnier, the assembly's Faithful Friar. Rev. Mr. Hayes will be ordained a priest in May at St. Catherine Church in Mendon.

Author and illustrator Patience Brewster autographed one of her books for Elizabeth McCrank, a student at St. John the Evangelist School, Humboldt Street. Brewster visited the school as part of a year-long writing fair, funded in part by the Wilson Foundation.

Suzanne Clar, a senior at Our Lady of Mercy High School, has received a $1,000 scholarship from the Monroe Professional Engineers' Society. She was also one of three students to earn a scholarship from the National Society of Engineers.

The daughter of Timothy and Elaine Clar of Webster, she plans to study engineering at the General Motors Institute under the sponsorship of Rochester Products.

Sister Mary Rene McNiff, RSM, has been named to the board of directors of Kinship Group Home Program, Inc. Kinship operates foster homes and group homes for adolescent boys and girls in Steuben and Allegany counties, and offers preventive services for residents of the two counties.

Sister McNiff is administrator of St. James Mercy Hospital in Hornell.

Kristina Young, an eighth-grader from St. Lawrence School in Greece, has earned a full, one-year scholarship to Nazareth Academy next year. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Young of Greece, Kristina earned the scholarship by scoring highest on the school's entrance exam, given in January.

Winners of half-year scholarships were Donna Otis from Nazareth Hall and Tanya Cornwell from the Ada Cosgrove School in Spencerport.

Fellow employees at St. Joseph's Hospital in Elmira nominated Mavis Smith as the recipient of the 1987 Oppy Award, which recognizes outstanding public relations work by an employee.

Smith, currently a supervisor in the hospital's department of foods and nutrition, has worked at the hospital since 1966.

Father Timothy McGough, OCD, a past Oppy Award winner who serves in the hospital's department of pastoral care, was also presented with the James E. Swartwood Award, which recognizes the "spirit of St. Joseph's."

Susan M. Douglas and Joseph E. Doyle were married February 14 in what was possibly the first "double-deacon" marriage ceremony in the diocese. Both the bride's father, Deacon Stanley J. Douglas, and the groom's father, Deacon Gregory Doyle, presided over their children's noon-time wedding at St. Mary's Church in Elmira. Shown above, from left, are Marge Doyle, Deacon Gregory Doyle, Joseph Doyle, Susan Douglas Doyle, Deacon Stanley Douglas and Joanna Douglas.

As part of their social justice project, students at St. Joseph's School in Penfield have collected health-kit items for local charities.

Students have contributed combs, mouthwash, shampoo, soaps, toothbrushes and toothpaste to the House of Mercy, an outreach center that offers food, counseling and tutoring services, and Bethany House, a Catholic Worker shelter for women and children.

Students at St. Thomas the Apostle School in Irondequoit celebrated their annual Mission Day last week. Children and their parents enjoyed a variety of games sponsored by the Home School Association. In the meantime, they raised money to support local as well as foreign missions.

Aquinas Institute senior William LaDue has been designated a trustee scholar at St. Lawrence University, where he plans to study next year.

As a trustee scholar, LaDue will be eligible for special financial assistance, a more flexible curriculum than other students, free courses and other benefits.

St. Ann's Parish choir last month paid tribute to an associate who has been a choir member for more than 60 years at the Hornell church.

Mary Candiello was still a student at St. Ann's School when she joined the choir in 1918. She has been singing at weddings, Masses and special services ever since.

Fellow choir members honored her dedication with a testimonial party. Among those who offered their recollections and congratulations to Candiello were Father Elmer Schmidt, St. Ann's pastor, Father Ronald Antinarelli, associate, and Grace Moretti Eagan, a childhood neighbor of Candiello's.

Peter C. Carpino has been chosen as the new vice president of development at St. John Fisher College. A graduate of the college, Carpino currently serves as group vice president for United Way of Greater Rochester.
