

Father Chester Klocek read the pope's message to a crowd of approximately 2,200.

Joseph Palmes stood at attention as Deacon Ramon Datz led the processional of clergy and other ministers.

priesthood came from Mary, emphasized the Blessed Mother's role in defining Catholic identity. Mary personifies the belief that God came to the world by becoming human and being born through a human. Moreover, her intercession with her son on behalf of humanity represents the principle of mediated authority, upon which the hierarchical structure of the Church is based.

He observed that devotion to Mary is linked to obedience to the hierarchy, noting that the architects of the Protestant Reformation rejected Marian devotion at the same time that they rejected the episcopal authority of the pope.

"We want to preserve devotion to Mary," Father Faricy asserted. "We live in a Protestant society."

Following Father Faricy's homily, Father Thomas Celso read the Act of Consecration to Our Lady of Czestochowa, which was written by Pope John Paul II. On the back wall of the ballpark hung a 32-foot by 20-foot painting of the patroness, who is credited with protecting Catholics in Poland and Eastern Europe.

Laverne Stevens from St. John's in Rome, N.Y., sings the processional hymn, "Immaculate Mary."
