'Weighting' for results

Realignment of Section 4 Class C will have Elmira Notre Dame going up against some new and unfamiliar competition this fall, but that's fine with seventh-year coach Mike D'Aloisio. Last spring's realignment of all football teams in Section 4 will provide D'Aloisio and his club with more suitable foes.

The Crusader coach looked on during last year's 4-5 campaign and saw his club able to stay with its bigger competition for three quarters, only to watch the players grow weary in the game's waning moments. The newly realigned divisions and D'Aloisio's newly implemented weight program should change that.

What the ND coach can't change is that All-City and All-Sullivan Trail Conference tight end, kicker and defensive end Sean Vecellio has graduated as has All-Twin Tier, All-Conference and All-City linebacker J.P. Bernatavitz. Also gone are nose tackle Mike Usack, center and defensive tackle Kurt Dix, and Mike Ratchford and Lee Wisniewski, who both doubled as wide receivers and defensive backs.

D'Aloisio does have All-League senior quarterback Kevin Harney returning. Harney threw for 900 yards last season, completing approximately 49 percent of his passes. All-Twin Tier running back Bob Grosvenor, who was a human blur as a junior with his tremendous speed, will also be an integral part of the Crusader offense again this year. The Notre Dame back scampered for 782 yards in '86, averaging a staggering 7.9 yards per carry.

"(Grosvenor) is a real good one; he could possibly be a Division 1 player," his coach said of the 6'1", 182 lb. back. "He's the quickest back I've seen to the hole. And he's got good instincts. He always seems to know where to go."

One reason for that might be Mike Bernatavitz, whom D'Aloisio termed the epitome of a good blocking back. "Mike really compliments Bob Grosvenor. He too comes off the ball well. He doesn't have the quickness of Grosvenor, but he can go the hole too."

Senior wide receiver Scott Long — who was the second leading receiver to Wisniewski last season — is back, as is senior tight end John Phelps. Phelps and Vecellio shared the tight end duties last season.

All-League lineman Randy Harvey, defensive signal-caller Mike Mesuch and third-year varsity player Mike Saxe will anchor the line for D'Aloisio this fall.

But the ability to stay healthy will also determine how successful a season it will be for the Crusaders. "After my key people, there is a big drop off after that (in talent)."

He's hoping the new weight program alleviates some of those nagging injuries. "I felt it would help our program... but also the kids who go on to college," D'Aloisio said. "College scouts would often tell me that our guys were two years behind everyone else (physically)."

And the Crusader coach believes the balance on this year's squad is as good as he's seen it. "In the past, we've been predominantly a passing team. This year we're more balanced, and we have one of the best backfields in the section."

Notre Dame opens the season at Watkins Glen on September 11.
