and can't do simple things like carrying a bag of groceries or dialing a phone. Daisy feels too ill to leave her home, and is growing discouraged. She needs someone to remind her that she's really not alone this holiday season.

32 Agnes will celebrate her 94th birthday this month — alone. Her two sisters died recently, and her only daughter is dving of cancer. Agnes is a charming, intelligent, well-dressed lady who keeps her nicely furnished apartment neat and clean. She is the perfect picture of the graceful, silver-haired lady, but beneath the set smile she is lonely. The holidays are an especially sad time for her now, and a friendly visitor might just get her through the season.

Gladys is 78 years old. She never married and has no family or friends. Glady's has a history of mental health problems, and eats only baby food because "it's not contaminated." She has been labeled an eccentric because of her obsessive disinfecting, and most people choose to avoid her. Still, this fiercely independent woman has managed to live on her own, despite her physical and emotional problems. But now her health is failing and the severity of her arthritis is forcing her to move to a nursing home. The change will be especially traumatic for her, and a supportive volunteer might just make the transition a success instead of a tragedy.

Edward and Thelma are an elderly 34 homebound couple with many medical problems. Edward has osteoarthritis and a diabetic condition that caused the amputation of one leg. Thelma has problems with depression and is estranged from her family and friends. The couple live in a tiny cellar apartment which is unsafe and almost impossible to see from the outside. Thelma worries about a fire. "Even if help arrived, they'd never know we're here." Thelma and Edward are on waiting lists for new housing, but in the meantime, they could use a volunteer to brighten up their dark little home for the holidays.

John is a 70-year-old man who recently 35 John is a 70-year-old main who recently lost his live-in companion of many years. He never learned to read, and depended on his friend to write checks, shop for him and read his mail. He's overwhelmed by the loss of his friend and by suddenly being thrust into a world of automatic tellers and endless medical forms. His holiday wish is a simple one - someone to read his mail and to straighten out his checking account.

36 Mr. B. is an elderly, disabled man who lives with his disabled daughter. Paying bills and meeting their everyday living expenses have become increasingly more difficult because of their small, fixed income and the high cost of food, heat and taxes. Many months there simply isn't enough money to go around, so they are often hungry and in need. They will suffer from inadequate clothing and lack of heat this winter. Gifts of food, money or warm winter clothing and blankets would help to relieve some of their distress.

37 Miss H. spends most of the mercent assisting rent. Catholic Family Center is assisting Miss H. spends most of her income for her to find a safe, affordable apartment. In the meantime, special gifts at Christmas time will help raise her spirits.

38 This family consists of a young mother with a 5-year-old son and a newborn infant. Her husband died recently from a painful illness discovered about the same time they began expecting the baby. The mother is struggling to make ends meet on public assistance and to raise the children while still grieving her husband's death. It will be a sad and quiet holiday season for this family. They would greatly benefit from some gifts to brighten up their

Mrs. F. is an elderly widow who remains cheerful in spite of many difficulties. Her nearest relatives live in another state. A heart conditions and diabetes severely limit her activities. Her 11-year-old cat, which is her constant companion, has developed a tumor. She can scarcely afford the special diet food she should have because her rent is too high for her income. Catholic Family Center is working with her to find a subsidized apartment, but in the meantime, she would appreciate special remembrances at Christmas time.

Keith, 15, lives with his handicapped 40 grandparents who are on Social Security disability. He desperately needs clothing while attending parochial high school. Very big and tall for his age, he needs a jacket or coat, size 44-46; long-sleeved shirts, size 17; pants with 40-inch waists; shoes, size 13 wide. Clothing - new or used - in these sizes, or contributions toward getting them would help.

41 A teenage motion with a child is staying temporarily with A teenage mother with a 6-month-old friends. She needs a low-rent apartment, used furniture, and clothing. She has very limited vision and is on public assistance.

42 Louise, 59, is a widow. She was a victim of a World War II prison encampment, and now suffers from arthritis, asthma and severe depression. Living with her are her daughter and a grandson who has serious kidney and asthma problems requiring frequent hospitalization. All three need food and 43 Several young mothers need cribs and baby equipment. The Catholic Family Center is trying to help the mothers to be effective parents and to cope with limited incomes.

Ms. T. is a middle-aged woman raising two girls of her own and two of her alcòholic sister's daughters. Mrs. T. and the children are suffering from severe depression because of a number of serious problems. They need help bringing Christmas to their home

Miss D., in her 40s, has no family and usually feels quite lonely around the holidays. She is making a special request this year for a family to let her celebrate Christmas Day with them at their home.

This family will be thinking more about hospitalization and medical bills than Santa Claus and Christmas dinner this year. Two weeks before Christmas, their little girl will undergo major surgery to correct a birth deformity that mars her appearance. Her teen-age mother must continue a struggle to balance her studies at school with caring for her daughter. For this family there will be precious little time, energy or money to celebrate the holidays without some help.

An abandoned, homeless mother desperately needs an apartment for herself and two children, ages 2 and 17 months. Their most immediate needs are for furniture, clothing, food and toys.

48 This young mother has five children, ages 8, 7, 6, 5 and 2. M. works nights as a nurse's aide and cannot afford luxuries on her low income. The family needs clothing and 49 Separated from her parents and feeling lonely and about lonely and abandoned, this pregnant 18-year-old is looking for furniture for her newly acquired apartment. She needs donations to help purchase household items, and baby clothes and furniture.

Deciding what to buy for two active lit-50 Deciding what to buy to the boys might be easy and even fun to do under normal circumstances, but when Dad has an injury that prevents him from working and Mom has a handicap that prevents her from taking over, the situation changes completely. Although this family has grown closer during these bleak financial times, their financial situation doesn't allow anything special for Christmas morning. Knowing that others care would make this a brighter Christmas for this
