Parish hosts pre-cana program

Our Lady of Lourdes, Elmira — Engaged couples are invited to a pre-Cana conference hosted by the parish on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 15 and 16, in the parish center. Friday's session is scheduled from 7:30-10:30 p.m. On Saturday, couples will gather from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Lourdes parishioners are also invited to an additional session entitled "Planning Your Wedding Ceremony" on Saturday evening from 7-8:15 p.m.

To register, contact Marc or Lisa Rustici at (607)732-5816.

Parishioners are also invited to a post-holiday appreciation party on Friday evening, Jan. 22, from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in the parish center. The party is intended to bring parishioners together, welcome newcomers, and thank volunteers.

Pastor proposes new outreach

Corpus Christi, Rochester — Father James Callan has proposed a new parish outreach program to offer women an alternative to abortion through counseling, shelter and support.

"At Corpus Christi, we offer hospitality to the homeless, the hungry, the ex-prisoner, the sick, the dying and the little children," he wrote in a Christmas bulletin message. "How about offering hospitality to those who are pregnant and have nowhere to turn?"

On Saturday, Jan. 9, the parish will offer a nuclear resistance retreat from 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

Parishioners are also planning to welcome Father Emory Tang, a priest from California, who will conduct a parish renewal January 23-28.

For information on any of the above items, contact the rectory at (716)325-2424.

Two Rochester-based organizations, Cephas Attica, Inc., and the STAR Program were among 15 winners of the Fourth Annual Eleanor Roosevelt Community Service Awards.

The awards, presented by Governor Mario M. Cuomo's wife, Matilda, and Brooklyn Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Sullivan in a ceremony last month at the state capitol, recognize civic or voluntary organizations that make outstanding contributions to the community through the use of volunteers. More than 300 organizations from across New York state were nominated for the Roosevelt Award this year.

Cephas Attica, Inc., is a program that since 1972 has provided job training and counseling for ex-offenders both prior to and after their release from prison. The STAR Program, administered through the Catholic Family Center, recruits volunteers to provide elderly men and women with friendly visits, transportation and light housekeeping.

A hiring committee last month chose Pauline and James Dobbartin to serve as co-directors of Corpus Christi's home for the homeless, Dimitri House.

Parishioners' prayers were also answered with the recent arrival of Chuck Sawyer, who is serving as a full-time staff resident at Rogers House, an outreach program for ex-offenders.

Teen suicide prevention was the topic of a faculty inservice program for teachers at Nazareth Academy last month. The featured speaker, Dr. Christopher Hodgeman, director of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry at Strong Memorial Hospital, outlined the early signs and symptoms of depression, as well as methods for coping with those symptoms.

"It is important for the faculty to be able to recognize the early signs of depression which may lead to thoughts of suicide," remarked Sister Marlene Pape, Nazareth Academy nurse. "Teachers must be prepared to deal with those students appropriately by referring them to the agencies which will be able to help them."

Four students from Aquinas Institute discussed high-school-level peer pressure and drug abuse with elementary-aged students as part of the Rochester Police Department's Drug Abuse Residence Education (DARE) program last month.

During the 12th of 17 weekly DARE sessions, Kacey Compisi, Ellen Frederick, Aaron Micheau, and Joe Triassi visited Nazareth Hall, Holy Rosary, Holy Family, and St. Philip Neri schools to answer questions such as "what happens if you refuse drugs at a party?"

"Students wanted more than facts," Micheau explained. "They wanted to hear from another student what it was like and how to handle situations."
