Covenant celebration scheduled

St. Augustine's, Rochester — On Sunday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m., Bishops Matthew H. Clark and William G. Burrill will sign a covenant agreement between the Roman Catholic and Episcopal dioceses of Rochester. The ceremony will begin at St. Augustine's, then conclude with a reception at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

The covenant agreement is meant to foster a sense of healing and forgiveness between the two traditions. It commits the dioceses to work for greater unity, dialogue and mutual understanding.

The ceremony and reception are both open to the public.

Noted labor expert to speak

St. Mary's, Rochester — The Downtown Community Forum's "Life After Five" series concludes with a talk by arbitrator and labor relations expert Jean T. McKelvey, Ph.D., Wednesday, May 25, from 5 to 7 p.m. in the church's lower level community center, 15 St. Mary's Place.

McKelvey will address the topic, "Public Review Boards: Promoting Democracy and Safeguarding Unions." A question and discussion session will follow her presentation.

An internationally recognized labor law expert, McKelvey is a Rochester-based member of the faculty of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University. She just edited a book, Cleared for Takeoff: Airline Labor Relations Since Deregulation, to be published in June.

McKelvey is a member of the Public Review Board of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO; the Federal Services Impasses Panel; the executive board of the International Society for Labor Law and Social Security; and a past president of the National Academy of Arbitrators.

The program is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be provided.

For information, call St. Mary's at (716) 232-7140.

Dr. Harry Murray, assistant professor of sociology at Nazareth College, has been named the second recipient of the Student Affairs' Service to Nazareth College of Rochester award. He was cited for developing special programs for Nazareth students concerned about worldwide issues. During the last year he presented several nuclear awareness lectures at the college, organized a student trip to the U.S. government's nuclear testing facilities in the Nevada desert, and arranged for students to work in area soup kitchens while participating in a homelessness awareness program.

St. Charles Borromeo School has announced the winners of its annual science fair. First place winners were Wendy Brundage and Heather Gray; second place winners were Michael Fitzgerald and Derek Wasnock; and taking third place honors were Meredith Grass and Lisa Di Nicola.

Earning the award for Outstanding Achievement by an Individual was Stacey Tears.

On Sunday, May 1, friends, family, co-workers, and CYO coaches past and present joined in a surprise banquet honoring Joe Judge, coordinator of CYO's basketball and softball programs for 30 years. During those 30 years, Judge has coordinated sports programs that have included nearly 75,000 young people, according to CYO estimates. Judge is scheduled to retire in 1989 at the end of his 31st year at the CYO.

St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira, has announced the appointment of Joseph P. DiBeneditto, M.D., M.P.H., as the new medical director of Occupational Health Service, effective July 1. DiBeneditto comes to St. Joseph's after serving on special assignment to the medical director of CPC Pontiac Operations in Pontiac, Mich. As the director of Occupational Health Services, he will be responsible for administering the O.H.S. programs for both outside industries and the hospital, as well as serving as an advisor to hospital employees and administration.

Eileen Goble, an English teacher at Aquinas Institute, has been awarded a fellowship by the National Endowment for the Humanities. Goble will participate in a five-week summer seminar program entitled "Local Roots and Cultural Identity" at the University of South Carolina at Columbia.

Parish Notes

Priest to lead healing services

St. Mary Our Mother, Horseheads — Father Matthew Swizdor, OFMConv, will conduct a series of healing Masses and services Saturday, May 21, through Thursday, May 26, in the church. The Saturday service will be part of the 5 p.m. Mass; the Masses and services on the other evenings will begin at 7:30.

Father Swizdor, an Auburn-area native, has developed a national reputation for his healing ministry. He is the author of three books: God in Me; Lay Hands on the Sick; and The Power of the Kingdom.

The healing Masses and services are open to all people needing physical, spiritual or emotional healing. For information, call (607)734-2977.

Pilgrimage to basilica planned

St. Joseph's, Wayland — The parish is sponsoring a pilgrimage to the Basilica of Our Lady of Victory in Lackawanna on Sunday, May 29.

The basilica was dedicated by Monsignor Nelson Baker, who has been proposed for canonization. He was noted for his many charitable activities in Lackawanna, and served briefly at St. Mary's Church, Corning.

The pilgrimage bus will leave St. Joseph's at 1 p.m. At 3, the participants will have a tour of the basilica, followed by a 4:30 Mass. After dinner, the bus will return to Wayland, with arrival scheduled for 8:30.

The cost of the trip is $15. The cost does not include dinner.

Reservations are due by May 25. For information or to make reservations, call the rectory at (716)728-2228.
