

Please Tell them you saw their ad in the Courier-Journal

Divorce Mediation
An alternative path to a divorce settlement.
For further information call:
Tom Hanson 546-7220
Catholic Family Center
50 Chestnut Plaza
Rochester, New York 14604

Golden Oldies Antiques
Buying • Selling • Appraisals
One piece or entire household
 Specializing in: art, pottery, lamps & shades, oak furniture, post cards, sterling silver, toys.
466 Oxford St., Roch., N.Y. 14607
716-288-4115

BARTOLOMEO FUNERAL HOME INC.

PETER W. GIULLARI
PHILIP P. PEROTTO
MICHAEL P. PEROTTO
60th consecutive year of our family serving yours
1425 Lexington Ave
254-5400

10 WEEK SPECIAL
Duane Neu's Mobil Mart
1508 Buffalo Road
7 UP, Squirt, Canada Dry
2 litre - $1.09
3 pack special on cigarettes $3.99
Coupon good only 1/8 to 1/14/89

FUND RAISING
Earn money through regularly scheduled paper drives.
CALL US WE'LL HELP YOU ORGANIZE
MONEY FOR NEWSPAPER
RECYCLED NEWSPAPERS ARE A VALUABLE RESOURCE FOREST-WOOD
INCORPORATED
CELLULOSE INSULATION
ELECTRA MANUFACTURING CORPORATION
One Curlew Street, Rochester, New York 14606
FOR OUR QUALIFIED INSULATION
CONTRACTOR IN YOUR AREA
(716) 458-0330
1-800-448-9800

GRANDÉ-VILLE HOME FOR ADULTS
The Latest Concept In Residential Living For The Adult Citizen In A Park-Like Setting
• 24 Hour Staffing • Library
• Latest Smoke & • Lounges
Fire Detection • Chapel System • Green House
• Housekeeping • Hobby & Craftroom
Services and more Future Reservations Now Being Accepted
All Inclusive With Meals $39.00 private $36.00 semi-private Daily Rates From:
For Further Information Call: Joseph A. Frate, Director
555 MAIDEN LANE (Near Mt. Read Blvd.) 621-6160

The Correct Answers

1989 Catholic Almanac
No. 259-8, kivar, $13.95;
No. 262-8, cloth with dust cover, $18.95

When you have the 1989 Catholic Almanac, you have the correct answers to questions on virtually every aspect of Catholicism around the world. Each year, this unique resource is completely revised, so you won't want to miss this newest edition. Order today!

The 1989 Catholic Almanac is also available at Logos and Trant's bookstores in Rochester.

The Courier-Journal
1150 Buffalo Road
Rochester, New York 14624

Please send me:
_____ copy(ies) of the 1989 Catholic Almanac, no. 259-8, kivar, at $13.95 each;
_____ copy(ies) of the 1989 Catholic Almanac, no. 262-8, cloth with dust cover, at $18.95 each.
Name _____
Address _____ Apt. _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Payment must accompany order.
Make checks payable to the Courier-Journal

Columnists

Learning from the lore of the Magi

By Father Albert Shamon
Sunday Readings: (R3) Matthew 2:1-12; (R1) Isaiah 60:1-6; (R2) Ephesians 3:2-3, 5-6.
Sunday is the feast of the Epiphany of the Lord. "Epiphany" comes from two Greek words meaning "to show forth or reveal." Epiphany is the revelation of the birth of the Son of God.

The Gospel has two epiphanies: one to Jewish shepherds, and the other to pagan astrologers. The incidents illustrate God's wonderful consideration and condescension: Jewish shepherds were familiar with angels, so God used an angel to reveal to them the birth of His Son; pagan astrologers knew nothing of angels, but they knew the heavens and the stars in the heavens, so God used a star to reveal to them the birthday of the King.

The Feast of Epiphany celebrates God's manifestation of His Son to the Gentile world in the person of these "astrologers from the East." In Greek, these men are called "Magi" — a learned priestly class in Persia. However since "Magi" is akin to magician and magician has a bad odor in the New Testament, the word is translated as astrologers.

They are said to have come from the East: probably, Persia. It is significant that the only Christian basilica in the Holy Land to survive the invasion of the Persians is the Basilica of the Nativity in Bethlehem. The reason why it alone was spared was because in the basilica was a painting of the visit of the wise men, garbed as Persians.

Tradition speaks of three wise men because three gifts were given. They were probably brother kings: one from Arabia, Gaspar, the youngest, who gave frankincense; one from Persia, Melchior, the oldest, who gave gold; and a middle-aged one, Balthasar, from India, who gave myrrh. Thus all the East and all ages are represented.

What made these students of the stars so great was that they followed their "lights," no matter the cost. And they persisted in their quest even when it meant consulting another king. Appearances meant nothing to them, for the star led to a house and not to a palace. Nor did they come empty-handed. They offered the wares of their trade: the myrrh and frankincense of wizards and the gold their wizardry brought. Then

A Word for Sunday

they listened once more to divine inspiration and went back to their own country by another route.

Legend has it that St. Thomas the Apostle, on his way to evangelize India, met the wise men in Persia. They told him about the star, their visit to Herod and the babe; and Thomas in turn filled them in with the life of Jesus. The wise men were elated. They were baptized, returned to Jerusalem to see the other apostles and visit the places made holy by Jesus. Tradition has it that they became bishops, and that they later died and were buried in Jerusalem.

In the fourth century, St. Helena, the mother of Constantine the Great, went to the Holy Land and found the true cross. She brought back the relics of the wise men to Milan. In 1164, when Frederick Barbarossa invaded Italy, his chancellor, Archbishop Reinald van Dassel, took the relics of the wise men and brought them back to Cologne. To house these relics, Nicholas of Verdun, the greatest goldsmith in the Middle Ages, was hired. He built three caskets with gabled roofs, one sitting on the other two. The reliquary is of solid gold — 660 pounds, given in honor of the gold given by the wise men to Jesus. So precious a reliquary needed a comparable place to be kept, so the great Cathedral of Cologne was built. There, behind the main altar, the reliquary may be seen today.

Epiphany reveals God's great love for all humankind and invites us to love like Him. Who seeks for heaven alone to save his soul may keep the path, but will not reach the goal; he who walks in love may wander far, yet God will bring him where the blessed are. Who seeks his life will lose it; but who loses his life for others will find it. May we offer love to one another for His sake, saying: "I know that Christ has given us birth/ To brother all others here on earth."

Rebuilding a city of devastation

By Cindy Bassett
"There are many who envy your position here, Nehemiah," King Artaxerxes commented as I waited on him at table.

"Yes, I am certain you are right Your Majesty," I said without looking up from my task. I was the king's cupbearer — perhaps the highest office a Hebrew could attain living in a country ruled by foreigners.

"And yet," the king continued, "your face is grave and sullen. Nehemiah, why have you been so unhappy these past few months?"

I hesitated. A servant must never forget his place. But suddenly, there I was, telling King Artaxerxes the reason for my great sadness.

"I can never be happy here in Persia while my own people are living in the devastation of Jerusalem. It has been 13 years since they returned there, and still the city walls remain in ruins," I explained. "After all of this time, I was sure that their lives would have been restored."

"There is not much that one person can do alone," King Artaxerxes said kindly.

"I have been praying to my God about it and I feel I must go back to Jerusalem for a time and do what I can," I replied. "Will you grant me permission?"

The king provided me with the necessary documents for my passage that same day. He also sent a supply of timber for the huge project.

When I finally arrived in Jerusalem, I contacted only a few of my friends. We inspected the walls of the city together during the night. In some places, the damage was so extensive that there was nothing left at all.

"This is a hopeless undertaking, Nehemiah," my companions told me. "It would take years of work to restore these walls."

For my part, I was not the least dismayed. I was convinced that this seemingly impossible task was something that God had called me to do: The next day, I called a meeting of all the priests, leaders and city officials.

It is time to put an end to our disgrace," I said. "Together, with God's help, we can restore Jerusalem and rebuild these walls."

The project commenced immediately. Suddenly, everyone in the entire city was eager to help. I appointed work crews headed by each of the leaders of the districts of Jerusalem. Each group was given a different section of the wall to work on.

The Bible Corner

And now a period of testing began. When God calls us to do something, often there are roadblocks along the way. I think it is God's way of seeing just how much we trust him.

Our foreign neighbors preferred to see Jerusalem as a scene of destruction. When they began hearing about our project, they came to ridicule us as we worked. "You are fools if you think you can ever accomplish this!" they jeered. "Jerusalem will never be rebuilt!"

Despite the insults, the people kept right on working. When Sanballat, a Samaritan, and the other leaders heard that the wall was nearly half-built, they became furious and planned an attack on us.

I armed the workers with swords and spears. Some of them stood guard while the rest of the people continued building. We began working day and night to complete the project. And the most important thing we did was keep on praying.

When we had nearly finished our work, Sanballat sent a message to me and requested a meeting. I knew that he was plotting to kill me, so I ignored him and continued on with the project.

What can one person do alone? Not much by himself. But, with God's help, even the seemingly impossible can be accomplished. After only 52 days of work, the walls of the city had been completely rebuilt.

Everyone in Jerusalem gathered in the town square to hear Ezra, the priest, read God's laws from the huge scroll. When he had finished, the people promised to obey everything. Jerusalem had been destroyed because they had forgotten all about God, who had never failed us. Now God in his great mercy had given us a new beginning.

Scripture reference: Nehemiah, Chapter 1-10.

The Fifty the Cath Fathers F a convert Carty co-years, Fa Sydney, swearing listeners that he d the Bible, the Euch blish ther are three the usual quently a med liste but alway Because chaplain Rumble i the unive the Chug downtow and I wer in the ho dom and ing his sta
One da late in A would giv people w nearly al teaching jections t with the knowing to the ne welcome
"One c and asked lived. He away. I s you go to did. My what happ of the rec asked wh structions
"How ol
Then he s said: "Ar been an well cont door."

The
The year
• the E the center • most make us e — and fin
• we a compassio and the se • we re stitute for substitute both.
• all cr seek it fo than the st • wom as equal p Church.
• all th cially lay • those from the remarried reconcile • all th office are • all th authority a firm pur • the who are other pas which the • the document alike sit u • effor make no h
• the p Matthew for the "r
• Bible cally incr
• the V ments rel