"Querido nino, eres vida de mi vida."

My grandmother always says, "In every grain of corn there's a thousand cornfields." Because, you know, you can plant and harvest and plant again—but some of the life of that first little grain of corn is still going to be there.

The other day, I told my grandmother that I was pregnant. She said, "Mija, eres vida de mi vida."

Maybe she was thinking about her own life, passing from generation to generation, grandmother to grandmother, like the corn. Maybe that's what she meant.

Or maybe she just meant, "I love you."

What do you think?

Give  a chance!

A loving message from the Catholic Diocese of Rochester.
