Lightning strikes church steeple

Tier edifice loses sound system, too

CAMPBELL — This church's exterior hasn't been looking too well lately especially for a parish called St. Joseph the Carpenter.

And it's not due to neglect on the part of those who maintain the church's appearance either. Rather, it was Mother Nature's sometimes violent wrath that caused the damage to St. Joseph's edifice.

At approximately 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17, a thunderstorm moving through this Steuben County village left its mark on the Main Street church. A bolt of lightning struck a cross perched atop the church steeple, shattering the cross as well as two 40-foot beams.

Not only did the church's exterior suffer damage, but much of the building's electrical service - including the sound and telephone systems — was knocked out.

According to Father Gerald T. O'Connor, pastor, it will "certainly cost at least $20,000" to repair the damage. The priest said he could not give an exact figure for the damage because contractors are still bidding on the repair work.

He added that the majority of these repairs will be covered by insurance, and that work is expected to be completed by the end of this fall.

James M. Rinefierd, the diocese's chief financial officer, reported that incidents such as these are included under a diocesan insurance plan which covers property and liability. Claims are handled through Gallagher Bassett of New York, a Rochester-based agency under contract by the diocese.

Rinefierd added that the diocesan system is a "pooled" program in which premium costs are shared by all diocesan parishes. This enables the necessary repairs to be made regardless of any parish's financial status.

"The parishes share the risk," Rine-

In addition, he noted, the diocesan insurance committee enacted a policy this past spring that would entitle a parish to a 5 percent premium discount if it installs preventive devices such as lightning protection or burglar and smoke alarms.

Although St. Joseph's mishap is one of the more unusual occurrences in the Campbell church's history, its pastor said it is nothing for parishioners to lose sleep over.

"It's not a great disaster as far as I'm concerned," said Father O'Connor, pastor of the three-parish cluster comprising St. Joseph's, St. Stanislaus Church in Bradford and St. Catherine of Siena Church in Addison.

Giant plastic sheets are currently draped over the damaged steeple. Another noticeable aftereffect, Father O'Connor added, is that his vocal cords are being strained a little more these days.

Madden named to head second hospital

ROCHESTER — Patrick J. Madden, president and chief executive officer of St. Mary's Hospital, 89 Genesee St., has been appointed to servé as acting president and CEO of St. Mary's Hospital in Troy.

The appointment, announced by the Daughters of Charity East Region Office, was approved two weeks ago by each hospital's board of directors. Both hospitals are members of the St. Louis, Mo.-based Daughters of Charity of National Healthcare System.

A statement released by St. Mary's quoted James Small, president of the system's East Region. Small said Madden - president and CEO of St. Mary's in Rochester since 1987 — was asked to accept the dual appointment because of his "strong track record in implementing innovative and forward-thinking strategies that have strengthened and expanded the traditional role of an acute care hospital."

The statement went on to say that "Madden's leadership and experience will better position both hospitals to respond to the coming challenges in healthcare reform, expected to be announced by President Clinton in the coming weeks."

In other news at St. Mary's, the hospital will host a seminar on "Human Reproductive Issues in the 1990s," on Saturday, Sept. 18. The conference is co-sponsored by the St. Thomas More Lawyer's Guild and the Catholic Physicians' Guild.

The seminar will discuss these problems and present solutions to restore human values, the release stated.

The program begins with an 8 a.m. Mass, and will be followed by morning and afternoon discussions on topics such as "Contraception: Moral Impli-cations and Dissent;" "Contraception - Medical Side: Effects and Moral Overtones;" "Natural Family Planning: The Hope of the Future;" "Biotechnology and the Assault on Parenthood;" "Fetal Transplantation;" "A Call to Chastity: The Answer to Teen Pregnancy and Venereal Disease;" "Marriage, Human Dignity, Contraception and Abortion;" and "Post-Trauma Abortion Syndrome."
