Couple co-authors new Marian book

By Ann M. Barnard
Guest contributor

ENDICOTT, N.Y. - "Everybody knows something is wrong," said Maureen Flynn, describing the current state of the world. She believes that today's increasingly violent society is a sign that Satan is thriving in the 20th century.

"But there is good news," she added. "There is a message of great hope."

Flynn said that message comes from the Virgin Mary and can be found in the new book, The Thunder of Justice, which she co-authored with her husband, Ted.

The Flynnns now live in Sterling, Va., but recently visited Satico's Catholic Shop in Endicott, N.Y., near Binghamton, on a book-signing tour.

According to Maureen, The Thunder of Justice, published by MaxKol Communications last September, is selling nationwide at a rate of 1,000 copies per day. The book is a compilation of the messages contained in Marian apparitions, beginning with the 1531 appearance of Our Lady of Guadalupe to Juan Diego and continuing through recent years.

Ted explained that through interviews with visionaries they realized some common themes.

"Mary's messages are really an antidote to the world's problems. She is asking us for prayer, conversion, penance and fasting," he said.

Maureen said the messages also carry a warning.

"We were struck by how many of these visionaries living today are talking about this great moment that is coming. These present-day people who are reportedly seeing the Blessed Mother are all talking about how we will see the state of our souls," she said.

According to Maureen, judgment day will come before the end of the 20th century. On that day all people will see where they stand spiritually, she added.

"Then we'll have time to change our lives. Mary is saying that God will pour his mercy on us. Following that there is going to be some great miracle. Then if we don't repent there will be a chastisement. We don't know what that is, but the visionaries are all saying it. Then there will be the triumph, the victory.

Maureen said reaction from readers has been "overwhelming."

"People have said this book has helped them understand their faith and the importance of personal prayer," she said. "The Thunder of Justice is sparking extraordinary changes in many ordinary lives."

But the Flynnns said reaction to the book from church officials has been mixed. Many clergy have applauded the couple's efforts, while others have expressed skepticism. Ted said the book has been praised for its objectivity.

Since the book's publishing, the Flynnns have appeared on Eternal Word Television Network and have given several speaking engagements.

"This is what happens when a person opens themselves up to the Lord," Maureen said. She said she thinks it may be an "oddy" that she and her husband are on the same faith journey through their work. But she said she is thrilled that he is just as interested in the Marian apparitions as she is.

For Ted, the historical record of Mary's predictions at Fatima and other messages that he said have been proven to be accurate, are evidence that the material in the book should be taken seriously by all Catholics.

"When you look at this and read this book from a historical perspective, she never misses," he said. "That's what's so convincing to me. Heaven is always far ahead of us."

How does the average Catholic apply this in their every day lives?

"You realize that it is a message of urgency, of a need for love and that the time is now," Maureen said. "Don't put off your conversion. Put God number one in your life, in your marriage and in your family. What you do and your priorities now will have a tremendous impact on your family and on your community. The time is now to put prayer back in your family."
