

FEATURE

Reymundo Jaimes (right) holds his son Adan, while his wife Marcella prepares dinner for the toddler.

Teacher Becky Guthrie tries to help Reymundo Jaimes Jr. remember a word in English at North Rose Elementary School. Although he is fluent in both English and Spanish, he attends a night class twice a week with his father and Gullibaldo Torres to learn English.

Marcella tries to wipe Adan's face after giving him his medicine. He had pneumonia, and gets very sick from the cold, so he needs medication daily to maintain his health. The family is able to obtain the medicine at no cost in the United States.

Fr. Jesus Flores, of the diocesan Migrant Ministry, greets Adan and Marcella at a Spanish Mass Nov. 5 at Epiphany Church in Sodus.

Reymundo Jr., 13, shares a tender moment with his little brother, Adan, 2, whom he helps take care of at home.

Marcella empties her basket of newly picked apples into a crate, while Reymundo drives the tractor to get more crates early one morning.

STORY AND PHOTOS BY ANDREA DIXON