

FEATURE

School's around the corner

Karin von Voigtlander/Photo intern

Maggie Frank, principal of Nativity School in Brockport, oohs over 4-year-old Cassandra Rivera's teddy bear. The school held a picnic Aug. 25 for children entering pre-K and kindergarten this fall to get acquainted with each other and teachers.

Karin von Voigtlander/Photo intern

Sarah, 3, and her father, Scott Gerken, play on Nativity School's playground at the get-acquainted picnic.

Andrea Dixon/Staff photographer

Donna LoMonaco helps her son, Michael, 4, get school supplies together with the "help" of son, Justin, 2, at their home in Brockport. Michael and another son, Eric, 8, will be going into pre-K and third grade, respectively, at Nativity.

Andrea Dixon/Staff photographer

Justin suits up for school in his brother Eric's backpack to show his mom he's as ready as his older brothers. He has a few years to go, however.

Andrea Dixon/Staff photographer

First-grade teacher Lorie Henry hangs cut-out feet with the alphabet on them in her classroom at Nativity School Aug. 24.