Please Act Today

Time is running out for children like Felicito, so please act today. As food supplies dwindle and unemployment in Central America climbs, more of these children are dying. In the area served by Dr. Escoval's

"He needs milk, all of the children here need it, but it is almost gone."

Milk means life for children suffering from malnutrition. It replaces protein their bodies have lost.

Milk is very expensive and difficult to obtain in countries like Guatemala, yet essential for hungry little children.

clinic, 125 children have died in the past year from malnutrition. She fears Felicito will be next.

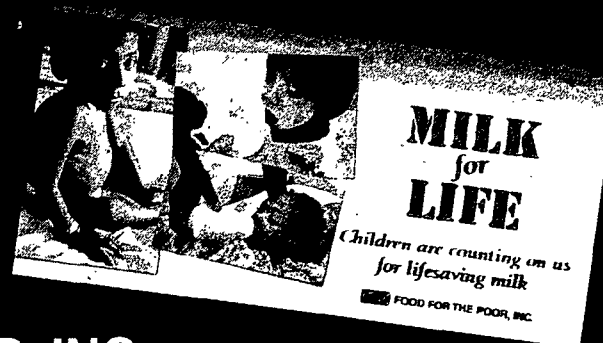

"When he came here, he was very close to death," she explains. "If he isn't treated properly and completely, he will die very soon." And there are countless children in Central America like this hurting little boy. They've suffered through earthquakes and other natural disasters. Their troubles seem endless. Now they have nothing to eat.

But the children don't have to keep dying. And you can be part of the miracle that saves their lives. Your gift of $70 will provide milk for 122 children for a year! Milk means life, and your gift to Food For The Poor will give precious little ones this most wonderful gift of all.
